LINCOLN MAN ON LOST PLANE

FOUNDERS DAY GIVES PROMISE OF BIG SUCCESS

Kenneth Wherry Reports Large Ticket Sale for Banquet, Frank Speech.

Spouting enthusiasm like a Fourth of July orator, Kenneth Wherry of Pawnee City, senior president of Foundays day, banged the table in party headquarters at the Lincoln Wednesday.

"If we get any kind of weather for Thursday we'll jam that coliseum to the doors for Dr. Glenn Frank's speech," he said. "This is going to be the biggest success yet. We're going to have a real crowd. Why we're going to jam that banquet room at the Lincoln.

"We've got 698 tickets sold for the banquet at the Lincoln already and they're far from checked in yet." Those aren't phoney figures. Those are the tickets sold and we've got the money for them right here.

"Our job on Founders day is to make this an annual pilgrimage of republicans to Lincoln just like the Kansas day is for republicans at Topeka. If we can do half as well as they do, I'll be happy.

"One thing I want emphasized is that admittance to the coliseum is open to the public. No tickets are needed. For those that attend the banquet we're going to save a section of seats. But we're not going to have any reserved seats for any so called party 'blue bloods.' It's going to be for eevrybody. We'll have buses at the hotel to take the crowd from the banquet to the coliseum and back again, and they won't have to worry about parking cars there."

Can't Go on Air.

With all his super, super optimism Wherry found time to do a little moaning.

"Just think of it," he said, "we've been offered a coast to coast hookup for Dr. Frank's speech and we can't take it. I spent probably $50 of my own money trying to make the arrangements. They've offered us time on the network from 7:30 to 8 p. m. You know we could never start it that early. We've got to keep faith with the people that we told long in advance that the banquet would start at 6:15. That wouldn't give us time."

Registration starts promptly at 5:30 a. m. at the Lincoln. The republican will be officially welcomes at 10 a. m., committees will be assigned at 10:15 and a worker's conference will be held

Manufacturers Association Figures—Deny Liberty Restriction.

WASHINGTON, (UP). Investigators read to the senate civil liberties committee a statement that "it would appear" that 207 companies—5 percent of the membership—were "in a position to formulate policies" of the National Manufacturers association.

An exhibit read into the record of a committee hearing headed by Chairman LaFollette, reported that "approximately 60 percent of the tear gas purchased by all industrial firms in the United States during the period of labor warfare was purchased by these 207 companies."

The committee reported all sales of tear gas totaled about $500,000 and that the 207 companies accounted for $296,000 of the total sales.

The study covering 1933-1937 showed that the N. A. M. had no contributions for its public information program in 1933 but that contributions increased to $750,000 out of total income of $1,439,000 in 1937.

Walter B. Weisenburger, executive vice president of the N. A. M. submitted a statement declaring the association's activities have not been intended to restrict civil liberties.

ROTHSTEIN ESTATE FADES

Property Shrunk From Million to $69,963.

NEW YORK. (AP). The "million dollar" estate left by Arnold Rothstein, Broadway gambling king slain in 1928, has a gross value of only $69,963 and is insolvent, its administrators said. Rothstein's extensive real estate holdings, the administrators said, had been overvalued and their depreciation since 1929 left the estate without enough assets to pay all creditors. The gambler was fatally wounded as he left a hotel, Nov. 4, 1928.

TUESDAY'S ACCIDENTS.

Lincoln has gone 70 days without a traffic fatality.

Speak at Founders Day Meeting

Miss Marion Martin, assistant to John D. Hamilton, chairman of the g. o. p. national committee, will be one of the headline speakers at Founders Day Thurs. She will address a workers conference at 10:30 a. m., the ladies luncheon at noon and the banquet at 5:15 p. m.

A graduate of University of Maine, Miss Martin took work at Wellesley and Yale and was twice state senator in Maine. She has played a prominent part in the organization of republican women's activities.

Lacey Black, Wichita, Kas., attorney is scheduled to speak at the ex-service men's luncheon which will be held at noon. Head of that division for Kansas day, Black is a brilliant speaker, according to those who have heard him.

SIGNS THE WPA MEASURE

Relief Rolls Can Be Increased Immediately.

WASHINGTON. (UP). President Roosevelt signed the $250,000,000 works progress deficiency appropriation bill. The signature will enable WPA to place into immediate effect its program for increasing relief rolls to accommodate mounting numbers of idle workers.

Increased employment quotas for WPA authorized by the $250,000,000 deficiency appropriation has already been put into effect in Nebraska, according to State Administrator Felton. Assignments took care of practically every certified and available worker in the state, outside of Omaha, where projects were lacking to take care of special classification of skills.

DEFINITELY TO HAVE CITY BRAKE TESTING

The city of Lincoln definitely will be in postion to take over brake and light testing by June 1, deadline as fixed by the state department. This assurance has been given by Director Venner.

It is assumed that a hurry-up has been encouraged thru assurance that, under the new state law, Lincoln stickers would not receive recognition under the present setup. With the municipal station in readiness to take over, recognition allegedly will not be withheld. It will then be unnecessary to have two stickers, state and city, attached.

It is the understanding that but a few privately operated stations in Lincoln are adequately equipped to test under the state law and those in position to test allegedly don't want the assignment. Men engaged in he auto trades in Lincoln are reported to be unanimous in favor of getting out from under a thankless and payless assignment. If those adequately equipped were willing to be designated, recognition undoubtedly would he given under the state law to Lincoln's setup.

The municipal station it is said may be a bit inadequate as to overhead when first established but assurance is given that the equipment proper will meet all requirements of the state law.

Director Venner has roughly estimated cost of equipment, for two lanes, at $4,000. It has been the desire, however, to erect a building or shelters so that tests may be made conveniently at all times and in all weather.

Where the station will be located has not been determined. The legal department has not to date given encouragement as to means of financing a station with all conveniences and appertances unless the money is on the line. The city derives approximately $10,000 annually, gross, from sale of stickers at 25 cents each. If the ante, as proposed, is increased to 50 cents on the theory that careful and complete tests are worth it, the toal gross income should be double—two tests a year, 50 cents per test on approximately 20,000 cars.

Even should a station in all its completeness cost $20,000, it has been estimated that first cost and maintenance would come back in two or three years from testing fees.

GOVERNOR WARNS LEWIS

Doesnt' Want Labor Leader in Oregon.

SALEM, Ore. (AP). Outspoken Gov. Clarence H. Martin, who frequently has clashed with C. I. O. officials, advised John L. Lewis to omit Oregon from a reported Pacific coast visit. He promised the labor chief a "warm reception" if he comes.

GOVERNOR WILL SEEK A THIRD NOMINATION

Cochran Announces Intention to Submit Name to Electors.

Gov. Cochran announced Wednesday his intention to seek a third term as governor of the state. Asked for a statement, Cochran said, "I think my record is quite well known. I will run on my record."

Mentioned as a possible congressional candidate from the First district, Cochran's announcement ended months of speculation as to his intentions. If his campaign is successful, he will be the first man in the history of the state to hold three consecutive terms as governor.

His entrance into the gubernatorial race brings the number to three. The others are Charles J. Warner of Waverly, a republican, and Samuel Freeman of Ellis, a democrat.

R. L. Cochran was born in Cass county near Avoca over 52 years ago, where his parents had settled when they came from Illinois in 1879. The family later moved to Gothenburg in 1892 and from there to Lincoln county in 1893.

WORK STOPPED ON WEST O

State Engineer and City Are Restrained.

Placing of posts in a plan for beautification of the highway in front of oil stations at 136 and 137 West O street was restrained Wednesday in an order issued by District Judge Polk against State Engineer Tilley, the city of Lincoln and the Abel Construction company. The order was issued on application of W. G. Lewis, trustee, the Lincoln Oil company, Alvin Young and John D. Strohm. Hearing was set for March 8 at 9 a. m.

Lewis has charge of the land upon which the oil stations are located. The Lincoln Oil company leases the land at 128 West O and Young operates the station. Strohm leases the land at 137 West O and operates his own station. The plaintiffs claims that the way the posts are being placed by the Abel Construction company interferes with ingress and egress to the oil stations. Large trucks cannot make the turn into the stations, they say, if the present plan of placing the posts too near the entrance is permitted. It is charged that State Engineer Tilley was not empowered by law to make a contract with the city for such work and that the constitutional rights of the plaintiffs are being violated.

NAME PURDUE COACH.

LA FAYETTE, Ind. (UP). Mal Elward, acting football coach at Purdue university, was named permanent head football coach after Noble E. Kizer, Purdue gridiron mentor who has been ill since last August, asked to be relieved. He will remain as athletic director returning here, Sept. 1.

LOS ANGELES IS SUFFERING FROM FLOOD WATERS

Santa Monica Canyon Homes in Danger—Store Fronts Sandbagged.

LOS ANGELES. (AP). One of the most severe storms in recent years brought dangerous flood conditions to Southern California Wednesday.

Homes were isolated. The Red Cross worked to remove marooned refugees. Usually dry rivers ran bank full.

City and interurban traffic in many instances was halted as the streets and highways were transformed into torrents.

Houses were reported to be in a precarious condition in Santa Monica canyon in suburban Los Angeles. Byron Porter telephoned the Santa Monica Daily Outlook he was marooned in the second story of his home.

More than a hundred families were moved out of the Venice district. The Red Cross was pushing rescue work in some sections.

There were two feet of water in the basement of the Santa Monica city hall.

A wide area in Del Rey was inundated and a dangerous condition was reported in the Mar Vista district.

Two empty automobiles, parked on West Channel road, dividing line between Santa Monica and Los Angeles, were reported swept into the ocean.

In downtown Los Angeles, store fronts were sandbagged for protection as streets ran curb full. Lifeguard boats were requested for a southwest district.

Collapsed retaining walls and landslides were reported at many points, one slide burying eight garages in mud.

Fifty houses in Tujunga canyon were threatened by the storm runoff. Occupants were trapped in the canyon by a road washout.

Police were called to rescue families in a low area of West Los Angeles, where the water rose to doorsteps.

BRITAIN TO SPEND HALF BILLION ON AIR

Increase Plane Defenses—Italians Qualify Border Control Agreement.

LONDON. (AP). The British government told its taxpayers its vast five year rearmament plan would cost even more than the originally planned $7,500,000,000 and warned them to expect still larger bills for defense.

A government white paper, reviewing rearmament already accomplished, frankly declared: "It must therefore be expected that even on the assumption that 1939, as now seems probable, will be the peak year for defense expenditure, the total expenditure on defense over the five years 1937-41 will exceed the sum of £1,500,000,000 mentioned in the white paper of February, 1937."

By the Associated Press.

Conflict and fears of conflict, held together the picture of Britain swiftly rearming, Russia and Germany trying dissenters, France and Austria struggling for domestic harmony, Britain and Italy negotiating friendship, and war in two hemispheres.

Great Britain disclosed she would spend more than $500,000,000 of her air force in the year beginning April 1. With her peace jeopardized both in Europe and the orient, the vast increase in air rearmament was expected to be supplemented by similar strengthening of her land and sea power.

The figure for air defenses represents an increase of $100,000,000 over last year's record expenses of $412,500,000. Since 1935 the strength of the home air force has been raised from 52 to 123 squadrons.

Italy had hedged on accepting the British formula for getting foreign troops out of the Spanish

Krause on Missing Airliner

—Staff photo.

When this candid picture was taken of Victor Krause, Mr. Krause was contentedly puffing on his pipe just after Nebraska had scored a touchdown in the Indiana game here Oct. 30. Mr. Krauses had taken his young daughter, Rosemary, to the game with him that day.

ROBB WAS A MAN OF FAITH, PASTOR SAYS

Guided by God, Geissinger Declares at Funeral Services.

A word picture of a man of strong Christian faith, "willingly guided by the promptings of divine providence in whatever form they came to him," was painted by Rev. E. Lamont Geissinger at funeral services for A. J. C. Robb in Grace Methodist church Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Mr. Geissinger said in part:

A. J. C. Robb.

A long time ago it had become very clear to an ancient seer that God had something to do with the way men lived, and that He could really delight in the ways of those who followed His promptings. This ancient likewise clearly understood that in accordance with the willingness of any man to be lead of divine providence that man could find guidance and enjoy the fellowship of the eternal.

"True it appeared to him that 'the steps of a good man were ordered by the Lord, and he delighteth in his ways.' Here is a thought with which all who knew A. J. C. Robb would be in hearty accord. He was an embodiment of the conviction of the insight. He was one of God's projects in human endeavor to follow God and do His will. So this day it is my privilege to point out some very specific references of Christian truth and beauty at the bier of him whose life I admired and whose kindly

LEVINE FEARS FOR SAFETY OF HIS BOY

Reports of a New Ransom Note Threatening Death Are Denied.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y. (AP). A third kidnap note stipulating the payment of $60,000 ransom and accompanied by a pleading note in the hand writing of abducted 12-year-old Peter Levine was disclosed as investigators hung on the father's decision to make another radio appeal to the abductors. The note was found Monday, it was learned, in a vacant lot next to the Bethel synagogue of Rabbi Abraham Nowak, after a mysterious telephone call directed him to the spot.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y. (UP). Murray Levine, haggard and distressed, feared for the safety of his 12 year old son, Peter, held by kidnapers for ransom.

The attorney kept constant vigil beside two telephones in his $23,000 home, anxiously awaiting an opportunity to get in contact with the abductors.

Reports that he had received a note demanding a ransom payment within 48 hours under threat of death to the boy, were denied. It was believed, however, that at least one authentic note written on a toy typewriter, had been received.

Police, who had conceded to Levine's plea to leave a clear channel for the kidnapers to conduct their negotiations, prepared to abandon their hands-off policy.

URGES MORE AGGRESSION

G. O. P. Too "Administrative," Says Miss Martin.

OMAHA. (AP). Republicans should be more audacious, more aggressive in attacks on the faults of the federal administration, Miss Marian Martin of Bangor, Me., assistant chairman of the republican national committee, told a party gathering here. Miss Martin will speak at Founders Day meetings in Lincoln Thursday.

"The republican party has been an administrative party so long that it has found difficulty in adjusting itself to the psychology of being a minor party," she said. "That the psychological readjustment has just about been completed has been proven by the fact that most of our recently successful candidates were those who have been aggressive, with a flair for attack."

PERSHING HAS FAIR NIGHT, DOCTORS SAY

Enjoys Breakfast Propped Up in Bed—Future Complications Possible.

TUCSON, Ariz. (UP). Gen. John J. Pershing, suffering from a heart ailment and kidney disease, spent only a "fair" night, but was propped up in bed for breakfast, his physicians reported.

Dr. Roland Davison, former army physician attending the 77 year old commander, issued this bulletin at 11 a. m.:

"Gen. Pershing had a fair night. He did not rest as well as on the previous night, tho he was alert on awakening this morning.

"He was propped up in bed to eat his breakfast, which he enjoyed.

"The immediate danger appears to have passed. The possibility of future complications from the heart or kidneys cannot be minimized. If these can be avoided, convalescence over a protracted period should restore him to a reasonable state of health."

Dr. Davison said that when he first approached the general and turned as if to leave, Pershing snapped: "Don't you go away, doctor. You say you'll be right back and you better be."

"He seems to be getting back in his old spirits," Dr. Davison commented.

Previously, the general had come out of a coma and asked: "Where am I?"

His voice grew stronger as the hours passed.

ELECT E. H. ARMINTROUT

Will Head Better Films Council for 1938.

E. H. Armintrout was re-elected president of the Better Films council Wednesday at the annual meeting at the Y. W. C. A. Other officers included Harriet Cardwell, vice president; Mrs. M. D. AFFECTED BY GAS LEAK

Over 75 Persons at Everett, Mass., Driven Out.

EVERETT, Mass. (AP). Leaking gas from a six inch main affected nearly 60 persons in the Woodlawn section of Everett and sent eight to a hospital. Between 75 and 85 persons were driven from their homes. Approximately 50 reported they had been affected in varying degrees, from choking to semiconaciousness.

VIC KRAUSE WAS ON TWA AIRLINER

Business Man Had Intended to Return Here Sometime Wednesday.

SAN FRANCISCO. (UP). Transcontinental & Western air headquarters announced it had received a message purportedly from United Airlines at Fresno saying the missing TWA plane had been found but that investigation disclosed the message was "one of the cruelest hoaxes ever perpetrated." The plane was still missing, TWA said.

Victor Krause, Lincoln business man and well known interior decorator, was reported to have been on the TWA airliner which was last heard from late Tuesday night between Bakersfield and Fresno, California.

Much concern was felt by his Lincoln friends as conflicting reports from press association sources failed to reveal the big ship's whereabouts.

Mr. Krause's step son, Gene Klose, is a pilot for the TWA and was flying to California early Wednesday morning to aid in the search for the missing ship.

Mr. and Mrs. Krause had been visiting with the Louis Jorgensen family at Carmel and also with Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Grainger, formerly of Lincoln and now of Salinas, Calif. Mr. Krause had been in charge of interior arrangements for the new Grainger home there.

W. O. Thomas, 1724 L, longtime friend of Mr. Krause, said he was very familiar with the Tehachapi mountains.

"If that's where the plane went down," said Thomas, "it may take a long time to find them, as the place will be very inaccessible. Travel will be difficult, especially if they have had rains, and searching parties would be fortunate to make three or four miles an hour."

Search In Mountains.

LOS ANGELES. (UP). A twin-motored Transcontinental & Western air liner was lost in the mountains east of Fresno and fear was expressed for the safety of its six passengers and crew of three.

Officials of the line sent searching parties into the mountains where eight feet of snow covered the brush and rocks.

Last word from the radio of the plane came shortly after 9 p. m. when the chief pilot, Capt. John D. Graves, reported first that he intended to return to Fresno, and than that he intended to seek the Bakersfield airport. The plane left San Francisco at 6:33 p. m. (P.s.t.) bound for Los Angeles.

Mrs. C. G. Landry, wife of an employe at the Edison company power house at Huntington Lake, reported that she saw the plane flying down the San Joaquin river at an altitude of 500 feet at 9:20 p. m.

Because of her report, the airline sent its Fresno manager and others of a search party by automobile to the vicinity.

The power house is about 40 miles north and east of Fresno and is at an altitude of 4,500 feet. On each side of the river mountain ranges rear another 1,000 feet.

Mrs. Landry said the plane was bound down the river and was clearly visible altho a heavy rain was falling.

Bridge Reported Out.

Search for the plane would be handicapped by the fact that the Kerckhoff bridge across the San Joaquin was out and would prevent automobiles from reaching the vicinity where the craft was last sighted.

The plane last was heard from shortly after Capt. Graves decided not to attempt to scale the Tehachapi mountains, a rugged barrier between central and southern California.

That the craft was down was a foregone conclusion since it carried fuel enough to last not later than 1 a. m., (P.s.t.). The ship was nine hours overdue at Los Angeles at 5 a. m., (P. s.t.).

The plane was one of the older-type Douglas bimotored airliners. It was on a shuttle line usually connecting San Francisco with the main TWA transcontinental route at Winslow, Ariz. Because of weather conditions the flight was switched to Los Angeles instead of Winslow.

The ship's return route up the valley to Fresno was over flat, open country where a forced landing might have been made safely. The airliner was following a radio beam. Two officials explained that the pilot must have lost the beam, and possibly strayed from the course.

Passengers were:

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Waits, of San Francisco, enroute to Chicago.

V. Krause Lincoln, stepfather of Gene Klose, a TWA pilot of Kansas City. Krause was enroute home

Jay Tracy Dirlam and Mary Louise Dirlam, Stanford university students enroute to their home at Mansfield, O.

M. H. Salisbury, a company pilot enroute to Winslow, Ariz.

The crew:

Capt. John D. Graves, chief pilot. He has been with the Airline since 1930 and on the San Francisco-Winslow run since September, 1937.

C. W. Wallace, co-pilot.

Margaret M. Wilson, hostess.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP). A strange message saying "we are all safe, but very uncomfortable," which was heard by an Oakland family when a commercial radio program "faded" caused an investigation by a skeptical department of commerce inspector on the chance it came from the missing TWA plane.

Alvin Smith, Oakland inspctor, said J. A. Damon believed he and his family had heard a message from the plane.

KANSAS CITY. (AP). Gene Klose, a Transcontinental & Western air pilot, took off by plane for the west to help search for his stepfather, Victor Krause.

TWA headquarters announced the following concerning its employes on the liner:

HERVEY MELVIN SALISBURY, a pilot riding as passenger home, Kansas City; 34; born Walnut Grove, Calif.; graduate Sacramento, Calif., junior college; attended Stanford.

PILOT JOHN DUNBAR GRAVES; home base, San Francisco; born Buffalo, N. Y.; 35; graduate of Stanford; also United States army flying school at Kelly Field, 1929, total of 7,063 flying hours to his credit

CO-PILOT C. W. WALLACE; home, San Francisco; born Burbank, Calif.; 29; graduate Mayse School of Flying, Tucson, Ariz., 1928.

O'MALLEY REVIEWS INCOME TAX PUZZLE

Collector Internal Revenue Explains Features of Federal Filings.

Only 50,000 of the one and one-third million Nebraskans pay any income tax to the federal government declared Internal Revenue Collector O'Malley, Omaha, collector of internal revenue for the state, speaking before a chamber of commerce public affairs luncheon Wednesday.

In 1936, he said, corporations paid into the federal treasury at Omaha $3,837,774 and individuals paid $2,925,562.

Explaining a number of features of the income tax reports Mr. O'Malley advised filing of separate returns by husband and wife, especially if their joint income is in excess of $4,000. It is important to file the "green sheet" with the return or the office will be forced to make a $5 penalty.

Explaining that there was some confusion about the forms O'Malley said:

"An individual whose net income for 1937 was derived from salaries, wages, interest and dividends, and was not in excess of $5,000 should ask for Form 1040 A, that the form 1040 is required to be filed by an individual if the net income from all sources was in excess of $5,000 and if there was income from any source other than salaries, wages, interest and dividends.

Another item often confused, he said, is the tax on gasoline. The tax is not deductible by consumers as it is in Iowa.

SOVIET PLACES 21 LEADERS ON TRIAL

Trotsky Accused of Being Ally in Conspiring With Foreign Nations.

MOSCOW. (UP). Leon Trotsky, exiled war lord, was denounced as an ally over a number of years of the German and British secret services Wednesday at 21 bolshevik leaders, latest of thousands to be called traitors in a terrible three year purge, went on trial in the hall of columns of the one time Nobles' club. It was alleged that Trotsky and the defendants conspired not only with Germany and Great Britain but with Poland and Japan to dismember the soviet union, seize power and return the country to capitalism.

Twenty of the 21 confessed their guilt. Only Nicholas Krestinsky, ambassador to Germany for nine years, refused to plead guilty.

Before the dreaded military collegium of the supreme court, the prosecution alleged that Trotsky, now in Mexico, had been connected with the German secret police since 1921 and with the British intelligence service since 1926.

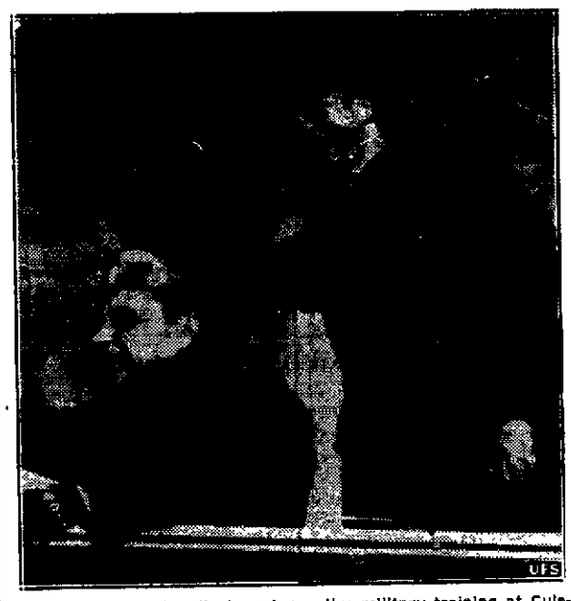

It was alleged that all of the defendants were linked with each other and with Trotsky in a gigantic conspiracy, extending back for 20 years, to assassinate Russian leaders, to murder men who came under medical care, to partition the country in league with foreign powers and to seize power themselves under a new capitalist regime.

It was alleged that, of the 21 defendants, Nicholas N. Krestinsky, former finance commissar, former foreign vice commissar, had been a German spy since 1922.

It was charged that A. P. Rosengoltz, former foreign trade commissar, had been a German spy since 1923 and a British spy since 1926.

Nikolai Ivanovitch Bukharin, "heir of Lenin," marched at their head as they entered the courtroom in single file, guards with bayonetted rifles on each side of them. Half a dozen at one time or another had been of world renown.

It's Lieut. Col. Roosevelt

James Roosevelt, lieutenant colonel in the marine corps reserve, about to take off from Washington in a marine plane, to begin serving two weeks in active military training at Culebra island, off Puerto Rico. The 6 foot, 32 year old son of the president is at right, with Col. J. C. Fegan piloting plane. Jim was commissioned Nov. 13, 1936.

CANDIDATES ARE QUIZZED

Five Lincoln Youths Seek West Poitn Entry.

OMAHA. (AP). Thirty-seven candidates for West Point military academy, including five from Lincoln, found it true there are times when the pen is mightier than the sword. They faced a series of geometry problems during the morning, and English, grammar and composition examinations Wednesday afternoon. Outstate Nebraskans taking the examinations are Oswin Kelfer, jr.; Don E. Simon, Elton Roy Wiley, John Reilly Finney, Robert Peyton Tabb and Franklin George Ragan of Lincoln; Marvin Dale Boyd, John Charles Falter, Ernest Johnson White of Falls City; Levi James Pedersen, Curtis; Emil R. Skocpol, Crete and Keith Eiler, Bristow.

CHARLES CARMODY IS DEAD

Detroit Officer Helped Send Frank Sharp to Chair.

Inspector Charles Carmody, Detroit, Mich., police officer, whose testimony was instrumental in sending Frank Sharp, wife murderer, to the electric chair died

CHARLES CARMODY.

Feb. 25 according to word received by W. C. Condit, former state sheriff, from Lieut. Tom Dwyer, of the Detroit department.

Dwyer was also a witness in the 1926 murder case and he and Carmody testified concerning the palm prints, which were a controversial point in both the trials.

CHILD CONVICTS HIM.

OMAHA. (UP). Sentence of Frank Norman, 25, WPA worker, in police court, hinged on the testimony of his 4 year old daughter, Joyce. "Tell them the truth, Joyce," the father told the little girl. Joyce, her voice hardly above a whisper, told Judge Palmer that "Daddy beat mama and tried to choke her. He did it many times." Norman was given ten days to adjust himself.

LOW READING 42.

Little change in temperature occurred in Lincoln during the night as the mercury dropped to 42 at 8 a. m., only six degrees below Tuesday afternoon's high reading. Skies were cloudy Wednesday morning and the weather bureau reported light rain falling at Omaha and Sioux City. A trace of moisture fell here. Lincoln's maximum Tuesday was one of the lowest in the state, with reading of 66 at Chadron, 62 at Omaha and North Platte, 64 at Valentine and 54 at Sioux City and Cheyenne. Burwell had a high of 48. Temperatures Wednesday morning were all above freezing, the highest being 44 at Chadron. Traces of moisture fell at several points and at North Platte .02 of an inch was measured.

Besides her sister here, Mrs. Casey leaves her husband, John; five brothers, John McGerr of Fairmont, Leo of Phoenix, Ariz., Arthur of Chicago, Paul of El Paso, Tex., and Gerald of New York City, and two other sisters, Mrs. George Derig of Detroit and Mrs. William Quinn of Los Angeles.

FOR BINDWEED DISTRICT

The state department of agriculture received application for organization of the second bindweed eradication district in Nebraska. The application came from farmers in four townships in northwestern Platte county, representing about 81 sections of land. W. L. Klatt, state weed supervisor, said he would check immediately to see if the 100 petitioners have fulfilled requirements under a 1937 law. The first district was organized in Scottsbluff county several weeks ago.

TAX REVISION BILL PRAISED BY DEMOS

Say Would Bring About Business Stimulation—Deny Surtax Hardship.

WASHINGTON. (AP). House ways and means committee democrats said Wednesday the administration's new tax revision bill, by providing a well balanced tax system, should bring about "a very substantial stimulation to business."

Backing up proposals to modify the undistributed profits tax, the democrats said some of the complaints made against it were justified, but that hardships in many cases "seem to have been exaggerated."

"On the basis of the facts," they said in a formal report to the house, "your committee believes that the principle of the undistributed profits tax is sound and should be retained."

The democrats said they believed a proposed new surtax on closely held corporations "will not create any serious hardship, and on the other hand, will protect the revenue."

They expressed a hope that modification of the capital gains levy would benefit persons interested in making long term investments and "will permit transactions to be made which are now prevented by the existing tax system."

Striking at these three types of taxes in a separate report, the seven committee republicans contended that in the "penalty" tax on large-income corporations owned by familes or by from two to ten individuals, the administration had forged a "political weapon" to "purge" the business structure of some of its woes.

They said the measure was "vicious" and "iniquitous" because of the retention of the principle of levies that have contributed to the "Franklin D. Roosevelt depression."

Asserting that not more than 300 to 600 corporations would be subject to the tax on closely held corporations, the democrats in the majority report said they considered the levy necessary "since it is clear that this class of corporations, in many cases, has accumulated unreasonable surpluses with a consequent loss of tax to the government from the shareholders."

WON'T RESTRICT THE NAVY

House Group Votes Down Kniffin Amendment.

WASHINGTON. (AP). The house naval committee refused to restrict the navy's operations in the Pacific and Atlantic oceans to a definite area. Chairman Vinson (d., Ga.), announced the committee had voted, 16 to 6, against an amendment by Representative Kniffin (d., O.) which would have established a definite naval frontier beyond which the navy would not be permitted to operate.

BUSINESS MEN LISTEN.

Paul Harris talked to about 30 business men and others at the Y. M. C. A. SAYS ROOSEVELT NEVER DID A DAY OF LABOR

House Thrown in Uproar by Declaration of Representative Rich.

WASHINGTON. (AP). Representative Rich, (d., Pa.), threw the house into an uproar by shouting at the top of his lungs that President Roosevelt never had done a day of work in his life.

Democrats snapped back, with Representative McCormack (d., Mass.), asserting it was "very unwise, highly improper and decidedly unethical for anyone to attack or impugn the president of the United States."

In the center of the whole dispute was a proposal by Representative Scrugham (d., Nev.), to boost from $100,000 to $350,000 an item for the Provo river reclamation project, in Utah, in the interior department appropriation bill.

Rich jumped up to roar his objections, denounce administration spending policies and assail the president. He yelled so loudly his words for the most part were unintelligible.

Challenging the statement that Mr. Roosevelt never had done a day's work, Representative Bulwinkle (d., N. C.) asserted the president formerly was vice president of a New York insurance company.

When McCormack jumped in to condemn personal attacks on the chief executive, Representative Shafer (r., Mich.) interrupted to say: "Did the democratic party follow that policy when they had a 'smear Hoover' campaign on?"

A CHEST FROM ALL STATES

Wood From Bellevue Trading Post Is Included.

Supt. Lefler, who is in attendance upon the meeting of the American Association of School Administrators at Atlantic City, reports that a beautiful wooden chest, composed of materials from all the states, was presented Tuesday to Charles B. Glenn, president of the above named organization. All of the states were invited to contribute materials such as marble, and wood, metal, semi-precious stones, etc., bearing outstanding characteristics of each state. Dr. Addison E. Sheldon, superintendent of the Nebraska State Historical society, co-operated with Mr. Lefler in sending from fur trading post built about 1820 at Bellevue.

FINISH LIQUIDATING.

Liquidation of two failed state banks was completed during February, Judicial Receiver Luikart reports. Depositors of the Farwell State bank were given a final payment of eight-tenths of one percent, or a total of $637.32 during February. This brings the total paid to amount to 56 percent of the total deposits of $91,231.03. The Farmers State bank of Wood River made a final February payment of 3.35 percent, or $10,572. The total payment on the $327,572.83 in deposits was 33.65 percent.

NEWS FROM TODAY'S MORNING JOURNAL

CLOSE DISCUSSIONS ON 1938 FARM PLAN

Committee Lists Three Important Points for Farmers.

Nebraska farmers will be concerned with three important points as they consider the 1938 farm program, state and district administrators concluded late Tuesday as they finished a two day conference on the plan.

They are: Acreage allotments and appraisal yields, classification of crops as depleting and non-depleting; payments for compliance.

The announcemen was made following the setting up dates of district conferences with county committeemen. Individual farmers will become acquainted with program details immediately in precinct educational meetings.

Following the announcement of the state corn quota and the breaking of it down into county allotments, the county committee of the farmers elected by their fellow producers will assign acreage allotments for total depleting crops, for corn and wheat to most farms in eastern, central and southern Nebraska. Western and north-central Nebraska, not in the commercial corn area, will receive no corn acreage allotments.

In commercial potato producing counties, certain farms will have potato acreage allotments. Excepting for wheat, each acreage allotment will represent the acreage of the crop which will be grown in 1938 by the farmer who receives full payment for participation.

Fred Wallace, state ACP chairman, said the wheat allotment for this year in Nebraska will be used in determining payments but not compliance. The usual acreage on the farm and a theoretical acreage based upon a soil management score card are given about equal weights by the county committee in assigning acreage allotments to individual farms.

The individual farmer then will have a wheat goal, a corn goal in most counties and a soil depleting crop goal. From this will be figured his participation and payments for co-operation.

Using this information, the state committee cited an example to show how the program will work on individual farms. On a farm with 200 acres of cropland, the total depleting goal might be about 150 acres. The farmer who receives full payment will grow not to exceed 150 acres of the common farm crops like corn, wheat, oats, barley, rye, beets and other such crops. On the other 50 acres he could grow temporary pastures or forage crops like rye for pasture, sudan, cane for forage, and small grain pasture. He could also plant trees, summer fallow, seed legumes or grasses or leave the land idle.

If a corn goal of 80 acres is set up on this farm, the farmer receiving full payment will grow 80 acres of less of corn in 1938. If a wheat goal is also set up on the farm, he could comply by planting 150 acres or less of depleting crops on the farm.

What would the farmer get for adopting these farming practices? Full payment for the farm cited, conditioned on a normal corn yield of 25 bushels and a normal wheat yield of 15 bushels and a productivity of 90 percent would be figured as follows:

80 A corn goalx25 bu.x10c bu.	$200.00
40 A wheat goalx15 bu x12c bu.	72.00
30 Agenral depleting goal, $1.25 x90%	33.75
50 A non-depleting acreage at 50c	25.00
	$330.75

WANT MOTION WITHDRAWN

Intervenors Ask Such Action in Cosmopolitan Suit.

Clarence N. Terry and ten others named as intervenors in the suit of Director of Insurance Smrha filed a petition in district court Tuesday requesting their motion for a new trial previously filed by Atty. Rolla Van Kirk be withdrawn. The motion had been overruled by Judges Chappell and Broady previous to the filing of the petition.

Atty. George Craven Tuesday afternoon filed a notice of appeal and will take the case of intervenors E. J. Beaurivage and others in the same suit to the supreme court. The petitions represented by Craven opposed the contract made with the Lincoln Liberty Life Insurance company for reinsurance of the Cosmopolitan business, the assets amounting to around $3,000,000. The motion of these intervenors was overruled with others. It is the contention of the intervenors that the contract made was not legal and that the Lincoln Liberty Life Insurance company under its charter did not have power to act as liquidator of the thrift assets.

PASTOR IS FOUND GUILTY

Convicted of Contributing to Girl's Delinquency.

DANVILLE, Ill. (AP). The Rev. William C. McCullom, pastor of the Four Square Gospel church, was convicted by a circuit court jury late Tuesday of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, 17 year old Mildred Miller. The middle aged minister's counsel indicated a motion for a new trial would be filed immediately and, if overruled, the case would be appealed.

W. R. Smiley and W. D. Perry, assistant division managers, explained the proposed campaign and W. F Hird, division manager spoke briefly. Entertainment in charge of S. T. Weller and K. L. Powell followed the dinner.

PAUL HARRIS OPENS TALKS

Says 532 Men at Capital Can Stop War.

"There are 532 men in Washington who can stop war," Paul Harris, director of the peace action department of the National Council for the Prevention of War, told members of the Lincoln Peace Council peace action committee Tuesday night at the Y. W. C. A. In thus referring to congress he stressed the importance of writing on peace questions to representatives and senators. "And you can change their minds," he said.

"Nothing you can do for peace is worth anything unless you change votes. This year is 1916 again, unless we change votes it will be 1917," the speaker declared. He pointed out that letters and telegrams, if numerous enough, bring considerable pressure to bear on congress, and suggested the Lincoln peace council stimulate such writing.

"Never before have the capitals of the world watched Washington as they are watching it now," he said. "If we muddle, the world will muddle."

The meeting was one of a series being held during the week and which will culminate with a mass meeting at First-Plymouth church Sunday night.

THREE COURSES FOR SCOUTS

Prominent Leaders Will Conduct Sessions.

Instruction in three specialization courses, "Introduction to Scouting," "Introduction to Cubbing" and "Advanced First Aid" will begin Friday evening, March 4, at Lincoln high school.

Dr. Winfield Scott will conduct the "Introduction to Scouting" which will cover the meaning of the scouting movement and the organization of scout troops. B. B. Dawson, scout executive; Willis V. Elliott, assistant scout executive; Claude S. Wilson, J. Lloyd McMaster, S. W. Alford, Floyd Robbins, H. B. Rea, George C. Mann and T. C. Chenuvront will be speakers at the sessions which will be concluded with an afternoon at Camp Mini-Kuya, April 3.

The "Introduction to Cubbing" will be conducted by John Straka.

IRVING LEVITAS SPEAKS

Addresses Meeting Sponsored by B'Nai Brith.

Irving Levitas, educational director of the Jewish community center in Kansas City, delivered a lecture entitled "Two Jews" Tuesday night in the Cornhusker hotel. The meeting was sponsored by B'Nai Brith, Jewish fraternal organization. Approximately 90 attended.

Levitas' lecture dealt with two fictional Jews from the novels of James Joyce, the Irish writer, and Thomas Mann, exiled German author. Levitas prefaced his discussion of the characters with the remark that people of a novel or play by a competent writer "may be more vital and real than many people you meet in everyday life."

CITY RECEIPTS.

Report of the city water department discloses February receipts of $26,113.71. Commercial light receipts for this period, $22,350.06, include the following items: Accounts receivable, $18,127.54; miscellaneous accounts receivable, $191.85; receivable from water department, $1,476.43; from street light department, $2,416.50; customer deposits, $125.

LIGHTING PROBLEM IS CONSIDERED BY BOARD

Plan Investigation of New Semi-Indirect System for Library.

Most of the monthly session of the city library board Tuesday was taken up with discussion of problems connected with lighting of the main building. Much of the lighting system is old and out of date and the possibility exists that the board may have to spend a considerable sum in repairing the entire building in order to meet the city code specifications which govern whenever any new construction is undertaken. At a previous meeting a representative of the Iowa-Nebraska Light & Power company suggested installation of an indirect system of lighting, which would almost double the present monthly consumption bill paid the city light department of approximately $75.

At the meeting M. C. Dudley, lighting engineer, recommended as less costly a system of semi-indirect lighting, altho saying the ideal system is the indirect setup.

Among the monthly bills ordered paid was one from the American Library association covering the cost of the Spaulding survey. This work was done under the auspices and sanction of the association. The total of $487.08 included an honorarium of $350 for Mr. Spaulding, who is in charge of the public library at Des Moines, traveling expenses for him of $57 and clerical help, postage and telegrams of $30, and $50 to the association for clerical work in connection with the survey and for mimeographing copies.

The board directed the purchase of $271 of books, 88 being for adults and 30 for juveniles. The monthly report of Librarian Horne follows:

SENATE CONFIRMS BRYAN

W. J., Jr., to Be Los Angeles Collector of Customs.

WASHINGTON. (AP). The senate confirmed Tuesday the nomination of William Jennings Bryan, jr., son of the late "great commoner," to be collector of customs at Los Angeles.

SUIT OVER CRASH.

Suit of Leona R. Wood vs. L. F. Meier and Duane Meier for $575 was filed in district court Tuesday. The action grew out of an automobile collision at 14th and K sts. on Oct. 8. Mrs. Wood was riding with her husband, Lawrence Wood, and Duane Meier was driving the other car.

NOMINATION IS DECLINED

Robert Koebel, McCook, Not to Run for Councilman.

M'COOK, Neb. (AP). Robert Koebel, nominated for city councilman by the citizens' caucus here Monday night, declined to accept the nomination. Robert Ogier, proprietor of a filling station, was named to replace him on the ticket.

Chairman Ralph Stevens of the citizens' party appointed a committee of seven to study proposed city government changes, including the city manager form of government, and report at a general meeting May 1.

Committee members are William Bullard, former legislator, George Moss, Dr. M. Campbell, and four candidates for the city council—Ed Peterson, Herman Budig, Everett Rouch and Ogier.

PRESENT RECITAL.

The 14 piece Lincoln string orchestra presented its second concert of the year Tuesday night in the Cornhusker hotel, under direction of Dorothy Holcomb. Approximately 150 music lovers turned out for the program which included compositions by Brahms, Bach and Mozart. A concerto by Vivaldi and a scherzo by Tschaikowsky and Dubensky, however, drew the greatest response from the audience. The orchestra encored with "Old Russian Soldiers Song," arranged by Dubensky.

GOVERNOR SPEAKS ON PAY AS YOU GO PLAN

Advises State's Subdivisions to Follow That Idea More Closely.

LEXINGTON, Neb. (AP). Governor Cochran told the Lexington chamber of commerce the average property tax is lower in Nebraska than in four surrounding states despite the fact the latter have additional sources of revenue.

"It seems to me that this is ample evidence to the effect that socalled new forms of taxes have merely served as so much additional taxes," the governor asserted.

More than 350 persons heard the governor. Included in the audience were representatives of Brewster, Merna, Anselmo, Milburn, Beaver City, Broken Bow, Elwood and Arapahoe, here to confer informally about prospects for the proposed north-south highway No. 21.

RECOVER SEVEN CARS.

Seven stolen cars were reported to Lincoln police headquarters during the month of February and all of them have been recovered according to police records. All but one of the number were found within the city limits and all were recovered within 24 hours of the time the theft was reported to police, files reveal. The other auto was recovered at Beatrice.

Trial of George D. Mawhiney on a charge of failure to pay alimony for support of his wife and two children is in progress to a jury in District Judge Chappell's court. The state charges that he failed to pay $75 alimony last May 1.

A notary public asked the secretary of state Wednesday if the fair trade and practice act could be brought into his field of work. He wrote that he was charging 25 cents for his fee, but another business place in the town was charging only a dime.

State Tax Commissioner Smith Thursday morning will address the annual meeting of the County Assessors association to be held at Kearney Thursday and Friday on the 1938 assessment of taxes. State Auditor Price, Treasurer Jensen and Secretary of State Swanson will attend.

Dr. Frank Keim will give an illustrated lecture Thursday noon at the Optimist luncheon, on his visit to Europe as a delegate to a world congress of agriculture. The next weekly luncheon will be omitted because of an anniversary party planned for the following Saturday night, at which Omaha Optimists will be guests.

More than $7 in cash and a quantity of candy marbles and pencils were taken from the J. D. Nicholes grocery store at 1245 Saratoga Tuesday night by a thief who gained entrance by breaking a window on the south side of the building, police learned Wednesday morning. A piece of pipe was used to smash the window.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Vail wrote Jesse L. Dougherty, county attorney of Platte county that where a person has resided in a county long enough to obtain the ordinary rights of a citizen and to exercise them in that county he is entitled to certification from the county as eligible for PWA work, even tho residence has been too short to give him a right to poor relief.

Chicken pox and scarlet fever led the list of principal diseases tabulated in the February report of the state department of health. During the past month, 215 cases of chicken pox were reported as compared with 234 during the month of January. Scarlet fever cases during February outnumbered the January cases, 274 to 168.

The Burlington asked approval by the railway commission Wednesday of a plan to save $600 a month. It now operates daily except Sunday a mixed train between Omaha and Schuyler, by way of Plattsmouth and Ashland. Because of bad crop conditions and the competition of other methods of transportation of freight and passengers the monthly loss by reason of these operations is $3,750. It now asks permission to operate the train between Ashland and Schuyler, a distance of 50 miles, on Monday, Wednesdays and Fridays only, and between Omaha and Ashland by way of Plattsmouth on the other three week days.

The railway commission Wednesday dismissed the proceedings brought against officials of the Chimney Rock Public Power district operating in Scottsbluff and Morrell counties to show cause why they had constructed lines along highways not included in the grant of rights by the commission. The attention of the commission was called to the condition by President Byrd of the Western Public Service company, who said that continuance of such practices would result in chaotic conditions and hazardous construction. District officials said that they had dismissed from service the man who was responsible for going ahead with construction without commission authority, and the commission dropped the proceedings with a warning. This was coupled with permission to build odds and ends of lines.

The four complaints filed at intervals by Lee Wells, Omaha attorney, against the Northwestern Bell Telephone company, including one that officials have microphones concealed in inkwells on their desks so that persons in other rooms may overhear conversations with complaining patrons, have been set for hearing by the railway commission for April 1.

FOUNDERS DAY

from 10:45 to 11:45 a. m. with Miss Marion Martin of Bangor, Me., assistant to National Chairman John D. Hamilton, in charge.

At 11:45 a. m. the 70 piece Pawnee City band will give a half hour concert in the lobby. At noon five luncheons will be held. Miss Martin will address the women's luncheon; Henry Bubb, national president of the Young Republicans, will address the local young republicans; Lacey Black, Wichita, will address the service men's luncheon and F. Harrington the press luncheon. A. V. Shotwell, Omaha, and Dan Cook, Beatrice, will be in charge of the old timers' luncheon.

At 1:30 p. m. a new Founders Day organization plan will be effected. Senior and junior presidents and vice presidents of each of the five congressional districts will be named for next year. After the roll call of counties there will be five 10 minute speeches by party workers, as follows:

"Precinct Organization in Our Cities," E. E. Smith, Omaha.
"Precinct Organization Outstate," Harry Sackett, Beatrice.
"County Organization," Al Mathers, Gering.
"State Organization," Arthur Denney, Fairbury.
"Women and the Franchise," Mrs. W. E. Minier.

The annual election will be held at 3 p. m.

The Pawnee City musicians will give another concert in the hotel at 5:45. At the banquet a toast will be given to Nebraska by J. Lee Rankin. Dr. Glenn Frank will be presented and Miss Marion Martin will give a 20 minute talk.

Doors to the coliseum will be opened at 6:30 p. m. A band concert and solos will be offered. Introduction of prominent personalities will start at 8 p. m. and Dr. Frank will speak at 8:30 p. m.

"When the audience goes home," said Wherry, "they'll agree that Frank's speech was one of the greatest they ever heard."

COCHRAN TO RUN

The home farm is located near Brady, and is still owned by the governor. The family lived for a number of years in a sod house in Lincoln county, the governor said.

Cochran attended the University of Nebraska and afterward was employed by a railroad as an engineer. He later became surveyor for Lincoln county. In 1915 he was appointed state bridge engineer and two years later was chosen for the post of deputy state engineer by Gov. Neville. He served 18 months overseas in the World war. He was state engineer for 12 years, resigning his post to run for governor in 1934.

He was elected governor in 1934 and 1936 on the democratic ticket, pledging "no new forms of taxation." He is president of the council of state governments and chairman of the United States governors conference.

The governor declined to say when he would complete his filing for election. Former Gov. Bryan is the only man ever elected for three terms, but no one has accomplished this during consecutive election years.

ROBB MAN OF FAITH

approaches to life were an inspiration to his friends.

"He was willingly guided by the promptings of divine providence in whatever form they came to him. One cannot refrain from quoting that well known request of Samuel when he had been prompted by the aged Eli to speak to God when God spoke to him: 'Speak, Lord, for thy servant heareth.' There is something of simple beauty about such an attitude. And there is something of profound insight in the glad willingness thus displayed. Brother Robb had both and did not hesitate to employ them. He sought for them. They were his meat and drink. He depended upon them for guidance each day.

"He recognized the high destiny of the Christian and gave unstinted service to the end of helping the church produce Christians. He has been a member of Grace church since 1904 and he was received by certificate. He was a prominent member of the official board, the pastoral relations committee, the nominating committee associated with the quarterly conference, and the men's class of the church. He took part in the activities of the men's club, and, like so many others who have preceded him, will be missed in these routine duties involved in the work of the Christian faith. His fine character, his modest approach, his gladsome spirit, his virile faith, his confidence in his fellows, and his delight in the law of the Lord readily grant him the distinction of one concerning whom it may justifiably be said 'The steps of a good man are ordered by the Lord, and he delighteth in his ways.'

Pall bearers were E. A. Baker, C. N. Cadwallader, L. I. Frisbie, H. D. Forke, C. A. Crist and W. F. Boys. Miss Vera Upton sang "The City Four Square" and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," accompanied by Margaret McGregor. In attendance were members of the church board and the General Aid society, East Lincoln lodge No. 210, A. F. & A. M., the Hiram club and Lincoln chapter No. 148, O. E. S. Burial was in Wyuka.

civil war, one of the prerequisites for forthcoming friendship talks between Rome and London.

Russia, the only major stand out, had just come into line. Now, with Italy's new stumbling block, France opposes the formula.

Demands 10,000 Troops.

Britain recommended a starting withdrawal of 20,000 troops after commission decided the total number of foreign soldiers in the opposing Spanish armies. Italy had agreed to that and to a British-devised plan for frontier control. Now, it is said, Italy demands 10,000 soldiers as the starting figure and immediate control of the French-Spanish border.

In strife torn Austria a nazi demand was made that the traditionally Catholic nation modify its concordat with the Vatican. Handbills assailed the church without specifying changes demanded.

The nation still stood divided with Graz a virtual armed camp of nazis encircled by troops, nazis insistent on attaining more power "without Berlin, if need be," and the anti-nazi fatherland front enthusiastically rallying behind Chancellor Schuschnigg.

The French senate commerce committee refused to yield to a compromise on Premier Chautemps' labor code legislation to end industrial discord. Government followers were anxious about a fall of the cabinet in view of the gloomy foreign picture and the menace of new strikes in a re-arming France.

In Tokyo, the government's drastic national mobilization bill, which would authorize drafts of man power and finance in war emergencies, was defended by a military officer as an emergency instrument thru which the nation could be put instantly on a war footing.

Eight Japanese columns, hotly in pursuit of retreating Chinese, were almost within reach of the more than 500 miles of the Lunghai railroad which stretches across central China.

Spanish government forces were reported to have driven insurgents from an outpost about two miles south of Toledo, on the central front, after a devastating artillery barrage. Toledo is 41 miles southeast of Madrid.

TAKE OUT ERODING LAND

Farmers Are Planting Grass and Trees.

"To check soil losses on their fields, many Nebraska farmers are taking eroding land out of cultivation and planting it a grass and trees," points out H. E. Engstrom, state co-ordinator for the soil conservation service. "This has been done on more than 3,000 acres of land under five year co-operative agreements with the soil conservation service."

Taking whole farms or even whole fields out of cultivation is rare, Engstrom explains. Generally only the most eroding parts of fields are being planted to trees and grass. This is shown by the fact that 3,000 acres actually planted to grass and trees represents work done on 196,392 acres under agreement with the service.

REPAIR CEMENT PLANT.

LOUISVILLE, Neb.—The mill of the Ash Grove Lime and Portland Cement company here closed down Tuesday for the annual 30 day period of overhauling and repair of equipment. There will be few if any employes laid off, as all divisions o fthe huge plant will be given a thoro renovating.

NOMINATE INCUMBENTS.

LOUISVILLE, Neb.—At the caucus of the progressive ticket held here the three retiring members of the village board were nominated for re-election: Dr. E. H. Worthman, C. A. Gauer and Charles Knutson.

SNOW BOTHERS RECEIPTS

But Postoffice Intake Higher for Two Months.

Snow and ice during much of February are charged with partial responsibility for a slight lowering in local postal receipts for that month yet postoffice officials are rejoicing. Receipts for the month were $70,732.52 as compared with $71,583.41 for the corresponding month of last year, a loss of $850.89.

The combined 1938 total for January and February, however, of $148,282.74 is $1,067.91 higher than the $147,214.83 recorded during those same months last year and 1937, as a complete year, ran up an all time peak of $958,827.37.

During February, receipts diminished approximately 1 percent while expenditures increased 1½ percent, latter due to difficulties in handling and delivering mail in snow time.

The money order total dropped slightly from $277,664.28, February 1937, to $276,404.29, February 1938. During the month just ended, however, 34,181 orders were issued and paid as compared with 32,111 a year ago. The report for last month shows 8,131 orders issued for $81,183 with 26,050 orders paid in an amount of $214,921.29. The corresponding figures for February 1937: 7,712 and $72,047.70 issued with 24,399 and $205,617.58 paid.

United States savings bonds were sold in the total amount of $86,325 as compared with $73,837.50 during February of last year.

ASK UNIVERSITY PAINTINGS

Two Wanted for New Book on American Art.

The fine arts department of the University of Nebraska has received a request from Mrs. Sheldon Cheney for permission to reproduce in a book shortly to be published on contemporary American art two paintings in the permanent collections at the University of Nebraska. One is "The Sea Shell" by Henry Schnakenberg, purchased from last year's annual exhibition by the Nebraska Art association. The other is "Self Portrait" by Henry Varnum Poor, purchased by the University of Nebraska last year for the F. M. Hall collection.

Mrs. Cheney, who is co-author with her husband of the well known "Art and the Machine," states in her letter that both Schnakenberg and Poor have mentioned the paintings referred to as outstanding examples of their work.

IN UNEMPLOYMENT FUND

Nebraska Has 2 1-2 Million in U. S. Treasury.

The state treasurer's office announced Wednesday a total of $2,553,000 on deposit with the United States treasury for credit to the Nebraska unemployment trust fund. This includes a deposit of $263,000 for February. The general fund at the end of February was overdrawn $722,072, or an overdraft of $119, 831 for the month. This overdraft, however, will be cut down shortly, because of a $144,400 deposit in the general fund since March 1.

The bond department announced $37,000 in bonds were redeemed and $82,417 invested in more bonds. This figure represents an increase of $45,000 in the investment account over the preceding month.

LEWIS WANTS ASSURANCE

Says Recession Is Due to Fears of War.

WASHINGTON. (UP). Senator Lewis, (d., Ill.), comparing the current economic situation to the days of 1914, called for administration assurances that this country will not be drawn into war. Lewis blamed the present business recession on the fear of war and said conditions are "exactly parallel" to the "markets, sensation and feeling of the business world" during the months before the outbreak of the World war.

CITY HALL NEWS.

Starting this week the city street department, sponsoring a center parking WPA project, is beginning where it left off last fall. The current start is at 24th and Lake going south. Last fall dirt was removed in center parking along Bradfield, Manse and with re-setting of trees and shrubs partially completed. The purpose of Director Erickson is to remove weeds and dandelions from these and other center parkways, lower the surface level so that water will do some good and to install springkler systems, in short to put these parkways in top condition.

The WPA project is estimated at $19,472.41 with the government contributing $15,485.36 and the sponsor $3,987.05. It contemplates the improving of the following stretches: 24th, Lake to High; Sheridan, South st. to Rock Island viaduct; Bradfield, South to 27th; Stratford, 27th to Rathbone; Manse, Bradfield to Van Dorn. The work includes grading down, resetting of trees and shrubs at lower level, relining and rebuilding curbs, installing hydrants for sprinkling and reseeding these center park areas. Once cleared of dandelions and weeds it is the idea to keep these areas clean.

Elsie McCommon has applied to the council and zone board for a one-year extension of the temporary use permit granted her last February in connection with grocery store operation at 2726 No. 36th st.

Report on the condition of city water during the month of February as disclosed from tests made by L. F. Lindgren, university bacteriologist, reveals the following; number of tests, 105, of which 95 were of municipal origin; fermentation of lactose broth with formation of gas in but one sample of city origin and colon bacilli not present, this being a sample of city origin and colon bacilli not present, this being a sample of untreated water from an Ashland well; 19 samples from wells and station at Ashland tested and entirely free from contamination, sanitary quality of city water excellent thruout the month.

DALE CLARK IS APPOINTED

Omaha Banker on President's New Committee.

OMAHA. (UP). W. Dale Clark, preisdent of Omaha National bank, has been appointed a member of President Roosevelt's business men's advisory council of 52, W. Averill Harirman, chairman of the council, announced upon his arrival here. Harriman, chairman of the board of the Union Pacific system, is enroute to Sun Valley, Ida., where the next meeting of the council is to be held April 3 to 5.

Harriman said he had noted a decided improvement in only one line—home building. This increase, he said, was probably due to the fact that investors needed this outlet for their savings and that homes can now be built at considerably less cost, due to favorable legislation.

Upturn in rails depends on increased freight rates, Harriman said. "We are hopeful the interstate commerce commission will grant us increases," he said. He praised the Nebraska "white spot" advertising campaign, saying it is having a "salutary effect on other states."

TALKS ON RUSSIA.

Dean J. E. Rossignol of the university college of business administration drew a full house Tuesday evening at the city library auditorium, where he lectured on Russian literature. Quoting from present day writers like Serge, Citrine and Chamberlain, the speaker drew a vivid picture of the social, economic and educational situation in Russia today. He has long been a student of the literature of that country and familiar with its history and the soviet experiment. He said that while the majority of books on Russia favored that experiment a few years ago, the situation is now reversed. On display were books by Dean LeRossignol and a collection of books on Russia.

STRENGTHEN DIKE.

The Lyman Richey Sand and Gravel company has a crew of men at work riprapping and sandbagging at the east end of the dike built last year north of the river, to confine the Platte in its channel. Constant wash of the stream at this extremity, combined with the high level of the water now from melting ice and snow, has been the source of some anxiety. Two years ago during the spring floods the river changed its course and washed out many of the company's sand pits.

HONOR "Y" MATRON.

FREMONT, Neb. (UP). Young men who make their home in the Fremont Y. M. C. A. showered Mrs. Ida Wood with flowers and candy Tuesday as she completed 25 years as dormitory matron. She became matron soon after the building was constructed. During the 25 years a total of more than 1,000 men have roomed at the "Y."

PUNITIVE TAXATION SHOULD BE ABOLISHED

Two Witnesses Testify Before Senate Unemployment Committee.

WASHINGTON. (AP). Two witnesses told the senate unemployment committee Wednesday that the crux of all plans for business recovery lies in the abolition of "punitive" taxation.

Ralph E. Flanders, member of Commerce Secretary Roper's business advisory council, asserted that the family corporation levy in the new house tax bill and the undistributed profits tax "make the expansion of business and employment x x x inexcusably difficult."

From George H. Houston, Philadelphia, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, came a recommendation for repeal of the undistributed profits tax and amendment of the capital gains levy, both of which he classified as "punitive."

"The tax on undistributed income," said the tall, bald locomotive builder, "is having and will continue to have the effect of forcing an imprudent and exhausting distribution of corporate earnings during periods of prosperity without the accumulation of resources with which to continue such distribution during periods of depression.

"Instead of stabilizing security prices it will intensify their fluctuations. This tax should be repealed in its entirety.

Houston testified that the capital gains tax "frequently" keeps taxpayers from selling securities and thus "throttles" a free market.

BURLEW NAME REPORTED

Public Lands Committee Favors Nomination.

WASHINGTON. (UP). The senate public lands committee voted to report favorably the nomination of Ebert K. Burlew to be first assistant secretary of interior. The committee overrode the opposition of Senator Pittman, who has led a month old inquiry into Burlew's qualifications, and confirmed Burlew's promotion from his present position as administrative assistant to Secy. Ickes.

ASK DEBT EXTENSION.

Two farmers of Nebraska have just filed in federal court petitions for composition or extension under Section 75 of the bankruptcy act. One debtor, Delbert M. Barnes, is of Nemaha county and the other, Carl Schlapshoff, is of Cass county. The latter lists assets of $33,050, of which $27,250 represents real estate, with debts of $55,283.11, all secured but $5,908.11. Among unsecured creditors are W. O. Schewe, Murdock, $1,000; Mrs. Paul Schewe, $1,000; Virginia Schewe, $300; William Langhorst estate, $1,000; John Schlaphoff, $2,420; C. C. Cartney, Lincoln attorney, $188.11. Among secured creditors are W. E. Straub, Lincoln, $15,225; Emma Schlaphoff, $12,000; Federal Land Bank, Omaha, $10,080; George Marks estate, Omaha, $3,000, August Ruge, $8,000. The last item and $4,500 of the land bank obligation are against real estate owned by debtor's wife. The Barnes petition lists assets of $23,265, including $22,950 real estate, with debts of $22,337, all but $227 secured. The Prudential Insurance company is creditor in the amount of $14,227.28 on a first mortgage. The land also is subject to further mortgages in the amounts of $3,275, $2,565 and $7,000.

CHARLES S. BARRON DIES

Kearney Homesteader Was Father of Lincoln Man.

KEARNEY, Neb. (AP). Charles S. Barron, homesteader here in 1884, died Tuesday night. He observed his 60th wedding anniversary Monday and his 88th birthday Tuesday. Barron still owned his original homestead, but had lived in Kearney 19 years. His widow, three sons, including Louis J. Barron of Lincoln, and two daughters survive.

PREFERS WIFE AT HOME.

OMAHA. (AP). Margaret Marling, registered nurse at the Armour and company plant here, testified at a labor relations board hearing that an employe of the plant Hubert Lockhart, told her he "would much rather his wife stay home and take care of the children, and that it would be more economical." At a previous session of the hearing of charges that Armour and company violated the Wagner act by discriminating against members of the committee for industrial organization packing plant union, witnesses testified Mrs. Lockhart was "laid off" because of her union affiliations.

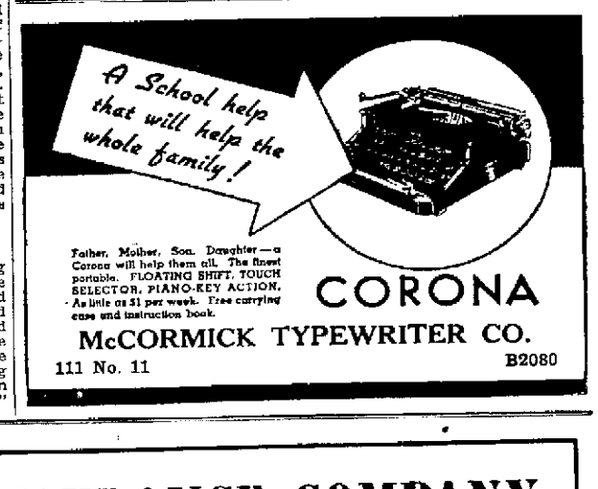

PAYROLL PLANE LOST.

MANILA. (AP). The fate of the payroll laden plane piloted by Burton Hall, which disappeared Monday enroute from Manila to Paracale, 120 miles southeast, remained a mystery. Heavy fog forced 17 army planes to abandon their search.

SOONG IS AIRCRAFT HEAD

Banker Said to Succeed Wife of General.

HANKOW. (UP). Unofficial reports said that T. V. Soong, governor of the Bank of China and former finance minister, had been appointed chairman of the aeronautical commission (military air service) to succeed Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek, wife of the generalissimo and sister of Soong.

USE OF MAILS TO DEFRAUD

Stock Market Operators Enter Pleas of Guilty.

NEW YORK. (AP). Seven men, including the socially prominent Philip H. Philbin, jr., stock market operator, pleaded guilty in federal court to using the mails to defraud, conspiracy, and violating the national securities act in connection with the sale of Atlas Tack corporation stock. They are to be sentenced Wednesday by Federal Judge John Knox, who received their guilty pleas. Under the law, he may impose on each a total of 67 years' imprisonment and $27,000 fines.

Guilty pleas also were entered for two corporations, McNeel's Financial Service, inc., of Boston and Philip H. Philbin, jr., inc. The six defendants with Philbin were William J. Kennedy, Edward F. Barry and Henry Barry, all of the McNeel organization; Harold B. Hale, William L. Jarvis of Boston, and Samuel L. Gaines of New York.

The pleas were entered just as a trial, for which the government had assembled between 150 and 200 witnesses, was about to start. The witnesses, according to Leo C. Fennelly, assistant U. S. district attorney, were prepared to tell of losses aggregating $750,000.

"Dedicated to the people of Nebraska and to the development of the resources of the state."—Sept. 7, 1867.

"There is no place like Nebraska"

The Kearney Hub is fearful that when the lineup is complete at Armageddon to fight the war that will end all wars, some pestiferous pacifist will step up and call the whole thing off.

An organization in Baltimore is trying out a juror questionnaire. Jurors are to be asked what they think of courts and lawyers. If the answers are to go thru the mails some of the jurors with unhappy experiences had better be careful what they write.

If truck regulation is to reach the point where it will be fair to truckers and will protect the people as well, there must come some leveling off of requirements in different states. Conditions and requirements in one state should match closely those of a neighbor state.

The impression may get abroad that Gov. Martin of Oregon talks too much. He is now intimating that John L. Lewis had better stay away from Oregon. That intimation may make it necessary for Mr. Lewis to make a trip to the northwest coast on urgent business.

"Nothing to fear but fear," said the president at one time. The burden of taxation had not grown to its present proportions when he said that and the government reorganization bill was then far in the offing. There is something to fear in the centralization in one department of government of the power to destroy.

Senator Barkley has classified and placed Senator Borah. He says that Borah is too big to be a republican but possibly not quite big enough to be a democrat. The classification coming from "dear Alben" might have been expected. There are democrats in Kentucky who are questioning whether Senator Barkley is big enough to be a democrat. They are promoting an opposition candidate for his place in the senate.

Mexico is often the scene of bandit activities by colorful characters. When a bandit has a little success in Mexico he usually adopts a picturesque nickname and goes out doing good as well as evil, doing good to the poor while robbing the rich in the Robin Hood tradition. The latest Mexican bandit of note is El Tallarin (The Noodle). El Tallarin has been doing a great deal of evil. Thus far he apparently has not gotten around to doing anyone any good.

The election fraud cases in Kansas City continue. The story as the cases proceed is much the same. The only new evidence introduced is that which connects the Pendergast family with the activities designed to control Kansas City elections. Everyone knows that Boss Pendergast rules Kansas City, that he continues to rule even now. He has managed, however, to keep out of difficulties with the federal government thus far and the state government is unwilling to touch him.

Senator Byrd opposes the administration's reorganization bill on the ground that it will entail a waste of money and is thereby setting the stage for a concentrated attack on the measure. Congress is constitutionally opposed to change and only needs a rallying point to oppose vigorously a bill of this kind. The president, if he really wanted reorganization, should have forced it thru when his popularity was at its height. Now congress is fearful of anything that smacks of experimentation or change.

The situation has become all the more complex in Austria because of the attempt by Emil Fey to mobilize the fascist heimwehr which once dominated the political scene in that country. Under the leadership of Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, this private army was very powerful and at one time expected to make the prince dictator of Austria. The constitutional government won out however, and the heimwehr was disbanded by government decree. Without the backing of his army the prince soon dropped from the limelight. Fey, a former leader of the heimwehr, issued a call for mobilization of the heimwehr with no authority from the government. His action has complicated matters for while the heimwehr might succeed in keeping in order the German nazis mobilized at Graz and prevent their marching on Vienna, it would remain a problem for Chancellor Schuschnigg long after the nazi problem had been put out of the way.

TRUCKING RATES.

The railway commission is the recipient of considerable adverse criticism because of the wide extent or territory taken in in its effort to control trucking rates. The necessity of state-made rates is generally admitted. It has been difficult to secure agreement among the truckers themselves as to charges for services in the past, and throat-cutting resulted in a situation where 13 percent of the operators were put out of business each year because of their failure to charge adequate rates for their services. Time and again an ambitious young man has invested his savings in a truck, usually being able to pay only a part of the purchase price in the form of cash. Unaware of the devastating character of depreciation and the part it plays in the cost of operation he has too often found himself at the end of a few years with a wornout truck on his hands and not enough money laid aside to buy a new one. All he got out of it was wages and not very large wages at that.

Trucking associations of the past have done much to better conditions. Members usually know what elements enter into the cost of operation and they have based rates on those costs. They have survived, generally speaking, but their rate experiences often have not been happy. Most of them welcomed regulation, and they have been willing to try out commission regulations in good faith.

Where the commission has laid itself open to just criticism is that it has gone outside the area of common carrier operation as it is generally understood, and sought to make rates for short hauls that form most of the business of purely local truckers. These are men who haul supplies from towns to farmers or who engage in pickup operations that consist largely of bringing agricultural products such as livestock and hay into a concentration point, from which other trucks take them to market centers. The legislature was right in seeking to exempt similar operations connected with ranching and farming, and while technically the commission has power over all common carriers, it seems to have invaded unnecessarily a field that might well be let alone.

KIDNAP-MURDER.

Peter Levine, 12, a lad of unusual brightness and a great admirer of the G-men, is now in the hands of kidnapers or playing a hoax on his parents. The latter possibility dims in probability because of the time that has elapsed. It is doubtful if a 12 year old self-kidnaper would hold out six days, writing fantastic notes.

It is far more likely that Peter is in the hands of abductors. Who these persons may be no one knows. It is certain, however, that they are cunning, for the use of a toy dial typewriter is a clever ruse, and that they are vicious. It is also certain that Peter is in grave danger.

The nation, in its stumbling way, has gone after kidnaping hammer and tongs. It has fumed and blustered. The federal agents have done distinguished work and the lawmakers have backed them up with drastic penalties. Kidnaping has been made a capital offense.

What is the result? Kidnapings have stopped? No. The crazed and the avaricious still abduct children, babies and occasionally adults. They take them from their homes or haunts and hide them away. They send threatening ransom notes to parents or relatives.

What of the victim? He is virtually condemned to death by the law that makes kidnaping a capital offense. The kidnaper knows that once he has become involved in the kidnaping his life is at stake. To return the victim alive would lessen his chances of escape. A boy of 12, for instance, knows too much. He remembers clues and is able to identify his captors in court.

Poor Peter Levine! If he escapes with his life it will be a miracle and only because his captors are more crazy and less cold blooded than most kidnapers.

Laws are passed making kidnaping a capital offense. Laws are passed forbidding the paying of ransom. But kidnapings continue and distracted parents pay ransom, and too often, kidnaping becomes murder before the crime cycle has come to an end.

MORE OR LESS PERSONAL.

The four to three decision of the state supreme court on the financial responsibility of trustees in the handling of trusts, with the minority expressing the strong conviction that the decision of the majority has opened the doors to undesirable conditions, has aroused a lot of interest among the lawyers. The first opinion in the case held the trustees responsible, but a reargument was permitted. When the case came up for decision a second time four members voted to vacate the original holding, and approved an opinion which held in effect that where the trustees acted in good faith they were not chargeable with losses that resulted from the depreciation of the value of the land upon which they loaned trust funds.

Omaha city council men, it is reported, have an understanding with the attorney general. The council will repeal the ordinance licensing race track bookie houses. Councilmen say their understanding is that these licenses are to be placed in effect again by the passage of a new ordinance if Hunter's effort to close the race gambling houses fails. It seems that Omaha people, after living in Omaha a long while, are not certain whether state law can be enforced there or not.

Omaha is not well pleased with the report of H. B. Waldron, submitted to the district court of that county, on county government. After much investigation he hints of many charges that might be made and of possible misconduct of officials, but he does not get down to details nor point out specifically basis for his complaints. He expresses concern that a determined effort has been made since his appointment by the court to control or destroy his investigation. He gives no names, no information that could be used as proof. He however believes the calling of a grand jury at this time would be inadvisable. He says that investigation by a grand jury now might destroy the prospects of unearthing evidence in the future. From his report one gains the impression that he would like to be continued as an investigator, and that in the face of the fact that his investigation apparently has resulted in nothing worth while to date.

Bridgeport, in far western Nebraska's North Platte valley, has reserved ten tickets for the Founders Day dinner, and may be represented by more than ten. Nearby counties have reserved much larger numbers. The committee is making it plain that while reserved tickets for the coliseum will be given those who attend the dinner, the coliseum is open to all who desire to hear Dr. Glenn Frank and Mrs. Marian Martin.

Two cars meet at an intersection after midnight. The results are serious, seven being hurt, at least two critically. One of the two drivers, at least one, was careless. The accident would not have happened otherwise.

Robert J. Black of Lincoln writes to point out that one way to increase the effectiveness of the navy would be to build the Nicaragua canal. He suggests that Mexico should be interested in the matter and that the United States and Mexico should co-operate in its building. He points out that Mexico could contribute part of the expense and a great deal of cheap labor.

February passed out with a record—more snow than the normal amount for the month in other years, and with an excess of moisture above normal by .26 of an inch. Even at that this part of the state will appreciate more moisture for the ground which has dried out to great depth during successive years of drouth.

FOOTNOTES.

No professor, I imagine, was startled by the list, given in a recent issue of College Topics, of words misspelled by students, writes Dr. Richard Health Dabney of University of Virginia in College Topics. Bad spelling, ungrammatical sentences and sloppy thinking by students may elicit heartfelt groans from professors at this and other universities, but are too familiar to excite surprise. But let us consider the question why so many unprepared students are admitted to the university. The malady is doubtless due to numerous causes. But perhaps a certain conception of "democracy" underlies more than one of them. The notion that one man is just as good as another, and perhaps a little better, has something to do with it. Everyone is, of course, aware that all men are not equally capable of becoming star football players or prizefighters. Yet there is a vague sort of idea that any man can acquire "general culture," attested by a bachelor's degree.

Did Thomas Jefferson, father of the democratic party, and father of the University of Virginia, believe any such nonsense as that? By no means. Jefferson wished Virginia to establish schools where every child should have a chance to learn reading, writing and simple arithmetic. But he did not consider it the state's duty to continue indefinitely to give free instruction to those who were either too stupid or too lazy to profit by that instruction.

As a matter of fact, the only justification for taxing poor farmers, mechanics, or unskilled laborers for public education is that it is to the advantage of the state and all its people that the citizens with superior brains should have those brains trained to such a state of efficiency that all the people may profit by their leadership. It is sheer waste of money and effort to attempt the training of morons and loafers, and to assist them in their ambition to spend four years in such extracurricular activities as riding in automobiles, watching athletic contests, dancing and attending the "movies."

It is desirable that every man should learn at an early age what he can do and what he cannot do. If he be incapable of becoming a genuine scholar, a skillful physician or an able lawyer, the sooner he discovers the truth, the better not only for him but for his parents and for the community. Far better that he should be a first class plowman, plumber or carpenter than a piddling "white collar" man with the silly idea that it is beneath him to earn his bread in the sweat of his brow.

No, Jefferson was right: in school, as elsewhere, the unfit should be weeded out, for their own good as well as for that of the public. If a college degree really meant that every holder of a sheepskin had exceptional brains and capacity to use them, thousands of those who, all over this land, are annually awarded degrees, would never have received them.

It is high time that the spurious "democracy" now in vogue should be tossed into the scrap basket and that the spirit of Jefferson should inspire the governor of every state in the union to wage an aggressive fight for the idea that the best brains in his state should have the best training available, but that mediocre and stupid persons should be positively discouraged from entering college and positively prevented from getting degrees.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS.

Q. When did Japan first have jurisdiction over Korea?

A. In 1906 Japan undertook the administration of Korea and in 1910 annexed that country.

Q. Is the opera, La Boheme, taken from a book?

A. The plot is from Murger's novel entitled Vie de Boheme.

Q. Is there any record of how many crowns, inlays and dentures are made in the United States?

A. There are approximately 75,000 crowns and inlays, 50,000 bridges, and 100,000 dentures made each month.

Q. Is there any record of the largest cake that was ever baked and served to guests?

A. The birthday cake given to Maj. Lew B. Brown, publisher of the St. Petersburg Independent, celebrating the 25th anniversary of the famous offer to give his paper away to all subscribers on any day that sun did not shine in St. Petersburg, was at least one of the largest. This great cake was wider than a cartwheel and several feet thick. It weighed 250 pounds, and portions were actually cut from it and served to over 3,000 people.

Femme Frailty.

The turtle on yon withered bough,
That lately mourned her murdered mate,
Has found another comrade now—
Such changes all await!
Again her drooping plume is drest,
Again she's willing to be blest
And takes her lover to her nest.

DAVID LAWRENCE.

WASHINGTON.—Significant among the utterances of the week is the speech of Winthrop Aldrich supporting the reciprocal trade agreements of Secy. Cordell Hull.

It is not merely that Mr. Aldrich is the head of the Chase National bank, largest in the country, or that he is a staunch republican, or that he happens to be the son of the late Senator Nelson Aldrich of Rhode Island, who, as republican leader of the senate, sponsored protective tariffs of the highest order, but that a voice should be raised from the biggest financial community in the nation, recognizing at last that removal of trade barriers does have much to do with our domestic prosperity.

"Secy. Hull," said Mr. Aldrich, "is not proposing to do away with all protection, nor am I. But we have let out protective tariff run wild and we must moderate it. I believe that it is economically impossible for this country to isolate itself from the rest of the world and I assert that the superiority of the interests of all the people over those of any minority group or groups is obvious...

"To the extent that we can restore foreign trade we can resist the present tendency toward a planned economy and controlled and regimented economic life. I advocate the restoration of an adequate foreign trade to restore the internal economic balance, to take away the excuse for regimentation and to protect both our economic and our political freedom.

"Let me say to those who believe in prohibitive protection tariffs and at the same time desire international economic freedom that they will find it very difficult to have both. An extreme regimentation of foreign trade begets an extreme political demand for regimentation of our internal activities."

What Mr. Aldrich has said is almost identical with the argument made by Lewis Douglas, democrat, in his recent speech before the economic club of New York. Mr. Douglas was originally part of the Roosevelt administration as director of the budget, but he resigned, and one of the points he has made to opponents of the new deal is that they cannot, on the one hand, consistently oppose domestic regimentation and yet refuse to allow trade barriers to be removed so that American internal production can be increased and the limitation of the output doctrines overthrown.

The address of Mr. Aldrich has attracted the attention of the Baltimore Sun, a traditionally democratic newspaper which refused to support Mr. Roosevelt for re-election in 1936.

Its editorial says there is a touch of "historic irony" in the circumstance that Mr. Aldrich has come forward to champion Mr. Hull's efforts to lower tariff barriers when his own father championed a protectionism that ended with the blue sky and which policy had much to do with the rise of progressivism in the west and eventually with "the eclipse of the grand old party altogether." The Sun adds:

"Essentially perhaps there is no inconsistency between the policies of father and son. Each would serve the needs of the country as conditions appear at different times to dictate policies. Senator Aldrich was dominant in a period when the United States was a borrowing, expanding country intent on building up native industries...

"The interesting point, now, however, is that the younger Aldrich has the intelligence and honesty to discard loyalty to a policy which must have a powerful tradition in his family and to urge that the fiscal policies of the United States be geared to the conditions which now confront the country. But while we honor Mr. Aldrich for his realism, we feel it is still more remarkable that so few men of his stamp have seen the light.

"If the business men, manufacturers, shippers and transportation interests of the great cities were as alive to their own good as Mr. Aldrich is, his voice would not be so lonely as to make the first pages. It would be but one voice in a mighty chorus."

Quite naturally, the seaport cities have much to be worried about with respect to the future of American foreign trade, and New York City, like Baltimore, is no exception to the rule. There are some economic observers who think that the persons engaged in vast real estate enterprises of metropolitan New York with their skyscraper office buildings and vast army of "white collar" workers must sooner or later be affected by the fall in foreign trade or else join the movement for stimulating the export and import business of the United States.

It is quite customary for those who argue about foreign trade to look only at the actual figures of inflow and outflow of articles of merchandise, but officials here have insisted that the by-products of foreign trade should not be overlooked, extending as they do, not only to factories far removed from the sea coasts, but indirectly to the prosperity of seaport cities themselves, which, from colonial days, have thrived on the brokerage fees and transactions as well as other activities growing out of the worldwide exchange of goods and services.

Secy. Hull's policies have been under fire from the extreme protectionists, and there is much doubtless to be said in favor of different methods of negotiating reciprocity agreements, but, on the basic idea of making reciprocal trade arrangements effective without submitting them to the log-rolling and frustration of congressional committees, more and more republicans are coming to realize that their 1936 Cleveland convention plank was a gross mistake and that its correction is essential if a large block of independent votes is to be won to the republican standard. Mr. Aldrich speaks not only as a business man, but as a conspicuous republican, and, incidentally, he happens to be president of that all important body of business men known as the chamber of commerce of the state of New York. Not in many months has so strong an ally for Secy. Hull's policies come forth from the republican ranks to take his stand for removal of tariff barriers by negotiation of reciprocal trade agreements.

DR. BRADY'S HEALTH TALK.

It may be intimated that the conductor of this column is a bit radical, but I'd have you know I was among the very last automobile drivers who accepted the automatic windshield wiper when that new fangled improvement was introduced.

Now I find there are a lot of conservative people who look upon the notions proposed here for Odd House from the same attitude I took toward the automatic windshield wiper. I held out a good two years. I hope Odd House will have better going. I hope, too, that we didn't frighten the staid old timers off altogether by setting up that swing divan in the living room so mother could swing while watching the neighbors go by. And I do hope neither mother nor her scandalized daughter will concoct any more schemes for a while—not until we have the roof on, at any rate.

Oh yes, of course Odd House must have a roof of some sort. I may wander around like a loon without a hat, but I still like to have a roof over my head somehow, tile, thatch, slate, shingle, tar, or whatever combination various members of the household may prefer, only the less roof, consistent with protection from rain, snow or excessive sunlight the better.

"I could never see," writes one reader who will be a welcome guest at Odd House, "why hotel bedrooms, restaurant washrooms, railroad and bus station restrooms and similar public places have plumbing installations which require contact of the hand, when faucets, buttons, etc., can as well be worked by the foot. Altho such places may be kept as clean as possible in the circumstances, there is always a hazard involved in handling or touching handle, knob, button, plunger or other object that has just been handled by someone else with who knows what communicable disease."

The reason why old time hand manipulated equipment is still the fashion in places where the roller towel no longer flourishes is, of course, sentiment.

Only foot pedals will be used for water faucets, toilet flushes and the like in Odd House, not so much for the hygienic effect as for example and to familiarize outlanders with the working of modern plumbing fitments.

THE PUBLIC MIND,

Our City Library Troubles Discussed by Dr. Louise Pound.

LINCOLN.—I read with astonishment the report made concerning our city library and its librarian by Forest B. Spaulding, imported from Des Moines, and I was glad to read the comments made on it recently by another librarian, Miss Anna Price. Of the two I think her much the sounder in training and experience. A survey made by Miss Price and printed in September showed that our library fulfills its function of circulating books among Lincoln families far better than do most city libraries and that this has been done for years and on a very meager income. Miss Horne's handling of money matters has been so unimpeachable that even her imported critic could find no slips. As for Miss Horne personally, I may mention that nearly the whole body of Lincoln teachers, a class using books constantly, testifies to her efficiency and courtesy in dealing with them. I add my personal testimony.

If the library needed expansion, and more money for it could be had, surely changes could have been brought about in simpler, more dignified, and less expensive fashion. I am told that it will take two persons to fill Miss Horne's place, one to manage the books and one to manage the money matters. She is neither incompetent nor decrepit, yet she must make way for a man from another city who has not had such responsibility of administration heretofore and who has been a naturalized citizen less than two years.

How can anyone who cares for fair play, who dislikes reports that condemn sweepingly and fail to mention unmistakable successes, remain silent when long faithful and efficient service is rewarded by public disparagement? Miss Horne's career as city librarian should end with praise and appreciation, not with elaborate, ignominious (and expensive) ejection. It seems unfortunate that the harmonious working of the library board and the library staff which has prevailed almost since the library's establishment should be disrupted under the present board.

The PIPER'S TUNE

By JOSEPH McCORD

A dull flush mantled his cheeks, as he busied himself cleaning his pipe with a grass stem. He had purposely been blunt in bringing up his affairs. He had been chafing under his self-assumed business harness. It was too sudden a change. He missed his old associates and carefree hours in the open. When he did meet his former cronies he was forced to accept veiled jibes, if he were not accused frankly of being a fool—displaying all the zeal of some beginning young bond salesman, when he had plenty of money at his disposal. Or was supposed to have. Gerta Greenway, upon the few occasions they met, was frankly amused at his role. That nettled him more than the ridicule of others.

Terry cursed himself mentally that he couldn't be low enough to accept Dad's offer. The worst of it was, her plan was perfectly logical. He could clean up. Talk about a rotten break . . .

"Then that's quite final?" Caradad was asking. "Yes! You must see how it is . . ." Terry sighed gloomily. If only Dad would or could suggest some middle course. Something he could accept as a sop to his pride.

"Yes, I see." Caradad looked at him pensively, as she resumed, "I told you I had two ideas. That was one. I've decided now to carry out the other. You can have no objection to it, because it is my own affair entirely. I shan't ask to help you, but you can help me very greatly—if you will."

"What do you mean?" Terry asked it suspiciously. "What are you going to do?"

"Leave the Rushmore. I'm tired of it. I want to be where I'll have more room and can be perfectly independent. I've decided to take an apartment."

"Where? What kind of apartment?"

"Somewhere in the neighborhood of the Rushmore, I think, I like it. I would like to try housekeeping again—on a rather large scale. You know, have servants and all that. I can afford it and I don't see why I shouldn't."

"Of course not. But, Dad, if this is some sort of game . . ."

"It's my game, if it is. What good is my money to do me if I go to the Pomphrettes' or settle down on a farm somewhere?"

"Go on."

"Well, I'd like to entertain a lot and give my friends a pleasant time . . . have a place where they will like to come, informally if they want to. Maybe I get that from Pop. He was always happiest when folks dropped in at home—the more there were, the better he liked it. Of course, I don't know so very many people here."

"Don't worry," Terry advised dryly. "You've no idea how many friends you'll have, once you start open house with free lunch served."

"I'm glad you mentioned that," Caradad said seriously. "I know a hostess is supposed to keep a supply of drinks for her friends. That's where I'm going to have to depend on you heaps."

"Go on."

"Well, as I was saying, I don't know so many people yet. But all my friends are yours. Certainly, they aren't going to be very much surprised to see you at my house—at parties, you know. And, if there are some you would like to entertain on your own account, why, we'll have them. It might be quite an advantage . . ."

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX.

"You're really going to do that, Dad?" Terry said.

"I really am. If you don't want to play—I hope you will, tho. You've no idea how much you can help me."

"Well,...." Terry shrugged resignedly. "If you feel like tossing away a bunch of money, I reckon nobody can stop you. And if you need any help I can give you—about running your place, I mean. You know you have only to ask. But I still don't quite get it—I wonder if you realize what you're getting into."

"I think so. I'm growing tired of living in such an aimless way. If I don't like it, I can always do something else."

"May I ask how pretentious an establishment you expect to have? It's likely to prove an expensive hobby. People will take advantage of you."

"Crashers, you mean. That's a quaint custom, isn't it? Well, I don't know just how big a place I do want. It will depend on what I can find—might take a furnished place. But I've set my heart on having a butler—I've got to have a butler!" She smiled. "Maybe that will have something to do with the size of the apartment. I want a butler who's nice and insolent. And I'm going to have a personal maid. I want to have and do all the extravagant things I've read about every since I was a little girl. It sounds foolish, I know."

"It certainly doesn't sound like you."

"Well," she mused, "I'm not so sure I am me any more. The ugly duckling's going in for swans-down. Are you thinking seriously of giving up your office, Terry?"

The unexpected question caught him off his guard.

"Well—I suppose I couldn't on a day's notice. But I had about made up my mind to do something. The thing's gotten on my nerves so, I'm ready to go back home and ride fence. Of course I can take time to go around and help you locate a place."

"No, indeed! I wouldn't think of letting you do that. But I hope business will pick up enough for you to stay on awhile. Of course I'll have to have a housewarming and I'll need your help to make it a success. So, don't run away too soon."

"Oh, I won't. And I'll be glad to help you in any way I can. But I hope you'll be—just a little careful."

"Careful? How?"

YOUR PROBLEMS

By Mary Gordon.

Dear Mary Gordon: It has been a long time since I have written to your column, and I am wondering if I may be admitted just once more.

The discussion of the young folk, (and perhaps some older ones too) as to what is proper and permissible in college, and various other gatherings, is sometimes very amusing, and at other times the writers are to be pitied for their display of ignorance, and in which they are permitted to continue, and that in the face of so many good schools and colleges, (and churches too) which are supposed to train and instruct the young generation in the ways that lead to their own good in this life but what is more important, the ways that also lead to their own salvation in the life to come.

I wish to refer especially to "Just Me" in the Sunday Journal; she is considering herself a good girl, nothing wrong about her, she "thoroly approves of dancing" and she thinks the "other things" that go with dancing, "you either make them yourself, or your 'crowd' does." I agree with her statement; but when you are with the crowd, you are one of them, or else such a good imitation that you will soon develop into one of them.

The question of dancing is not, do I, or do you, or does some one else, approve of it, but the true Christian, who is a follower of Christ, will ask himself, does He approve of it? To follow Christ means that we do not indulge in any pastime in which He had no participation. A true Christian can not serve two masters, and when frequenting any gathering he will ask himself, am I serving the Master who is building up the kingdom of God, or am I serving the one who is tearing it down?

In her most eloquent article, "Just Me" tells us "most everything we do is our own business," and I agree that, that is the way the world feels inclined; but religion teaches us that this statement is correct only in so far as your business does not harm yourself or your friends who associate with you; if by your conduct you are harming yourself, or if there is danger that, by your conduct others around you might receive a harmful impression, then if such is the case, we are our brother's keeper, and it becomes our business to save them from any, or all eternal harm, if such a thing is possible.

Let us sincerely hope that "Just Me" can spend her most enjoyable evenings in dancing, and in spite of it, still remain a true and faithful child of God, such as the heavenly Father would have her be, but the fact remains the laying of a stumbling block in the path of another, might cause him to fall, which of course, we must avoid if possible.

I am sorry my letter will hurt the feelings of many who will take time enough to read it; but such is not intentional on my part, as I must write the truth, and very often the truth will hurt.

Now before closing I want to say that I fall far short of the description she has given of her ideal boy. I am not nice looking, I have no black hair, I do not dance, and am not a good conversationalist, and am less than 6 feet tall. Thank you—A Modern Man.

A. It has been a long time since you wrote us. We had thought perhaps you were no longer interested in our discussions.

Lace Cookies.

½ cup sifted cake flour
2½ teaspoons double-acting baking powder
5 tablespoons butter or other shortening
1 cup sugar
2 egg yolks, well beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ can moist, sweetened coconut
3 cups corn flakes
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, and sift again. Cream butter thoroly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks and beat well. Add flour gradually, beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla, coconut and corn flakes. Fold in egg whites. Drop from teaspoon onto greased baking sheet, spread thin, and bake in hot oven (425 degree F.) 5 to 7 minutes. Makes 3½ dozen cookies.

Keep Check On Baby's Progress

Mother Can Ascertain If Development of Infant Is Normal

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

I RECEIVE many letters requesting information as to the proper height and weight of a child during its first year. "When should the baby sit up, walk and talk?" is a frequent inquiry.

The answers to these questions are of great value not only to the physician but to the mother as well. In my opinion, every mother should be familiar with these matters; then if the child does not show normal progress the mother will detect it at an early age.

By the fourth or fifth month after birth, the average normal infant will measure from 25 to 27 inches in length. At this time it weighs from 16 to 19 pounds. It should be able to use its hands and be capable of picking up things.

Normal Progress

At this age the infant will make certain sounds. Although it may not form words, the vocal performance is, of course, a great delight to the fond parents. Usually this takes the form of gurgling sounds which may resemble such words as "mama" and "dadda".

Although some infants begin to crawl around at an early age, it is usually not until the eighth or ninth month that they make much progress. At about the 12th month the infant toddles about.

Some children are particularly capable in their talking and walking. Girls usually learn to walk and talk at an earlier age than boys. But it is well to bear in mind that many children do not follow the usual rules; there are many exceptions to the experience I have outlined. Some deviation from the average does not indicate disease or give reason for anxiety.

Examinations Vital

Every infant should be taken to the doctor for periodic health examinations. These will reveal any delay in development and growth, as well as the reasons for it. The doctor will say there is no need for alarm though the infant is a bit slow in walking or talking. But if there is really something wrong, he will find and correct the trouble.

All mothers should obtain medical advice and instruction concerning the care and attention which are so essential to the development of a strong and sturdy child. If you cannot afford to obtain this advice from a private physician, apply at the nearest baby health clinic or ask the health officer for advice.

The children of today are healthier, brighter and happier than children of yesterday because they are given the advantages of all that modern medical science offers. But, of course, these measures are of no advantage unless they are used.

Marriage Meddlers

A Sequel to "Married Comrades"

By Adele Garrison

FROM BENEATH lowered eyelashes, I watched the hotel manager closely as I put my query as to the reason for Philip Veritzen's direction that a "carpenter see to it". But either he had nothing to conceal, or he was wary enough to guess my maneuver and match it by apparently yielding to the inevitable, as if it were his expected procedure. At any rate, his reply was prompt.

"There is no connection between the small one-room-and-bath suite next door and this one," he said. "But one can be made with very little trouble by cutting a door in the other bathroom, and another in the back of an unused closet here." He waved a hand toward the only door in our suite which had not been opened by the housekeeper.

"Mr. Veritzen thought, of course, that you would wish to have direct access to Miss Whitlock's apartment, and therefore he asked me if it were possible to have such communication made. I told him that it was entirely practicable, and he has directed that it be done."

"How very thoughtful of him!" I murmured, with what I deemed the proper appreciative accents. "But, as Miss Whitlock may be away occasionally, may I ask that the bolts and chains which I asked for the outer doors, also be put upon the closet door of this suite and the bathroom door belonging to Miss Whitlock's apartment?"

Mr. Milner's professional imperturbability stood him in good stead at this request, which I knew he might well deem extraordinary.

Madge Is Satisfied

"That can be done," he said nodding. "I will instruct the carpenter accordingly."

"Thank you so much," I murmured demurely, "especially for giving us so much of your time. I am sure we have everything now we wish."

"Then I will bid you good afternoon," he said formally, moving toward the door, where he stopped and added as if as an afterthought:

"I do not know that I shall be able to get the carpenter to do that work tonight. Would tomorrow do?"

"Of course," I said promptly, and with a glance at the twin beds which occupied one bedroom, added carelessly:

"Do not bother to have Miss Whitlock's room prepared until tomorrow. She will sleep in here until you have all alterations completed and the bolts and chains in place."

His eyebrows lifted ever so slightly.

"I hope you do not fear being murdered in your beds," he said, and knew that he regretted the banal quip as soon as he had uttered it.

Wait for Dinner

"Such things have happened in New York City before this," I said, willing that he should think me a terrified neurotic rather than have him guess the real, if vague, fears which were obsessing me.

"We will have everything completed to your satisfaction tomorrow afternoon," he promised hastily. "And do not hesitate to call upon me at any time for anything you wish. Shall I send you up a dinner menu?"

"Please!" I said. "But I cannot give my order yet. My husband is planning something special for our dinner, I believe."

"We can furnish him anything he wishes, if he will only give us a little time," he assured us. "Good afternoon!"

Mary waited until she heard the click of the elevator door outside signaling his descent before breaking into excited speech.

"Oh! boy!" she exclaimed. "Didn't you take the starch out—"

"Hush!" Miss Whitlock said peremptorily as she moved to the door on swift, noiseless feet and jerked it open.

"Oh!" she said as if startled. "I thought you had gone."

GOODNIGHT STORIES

By MAX TRELL

MRS. CUCKOO pushed her spectacles on her forehead and let her knitting lie idle in her lap for a moment.

"You know," Mrs. Cuckoo went on in her little sad voice, "whenever the middle of the winter comes round, I always think of the little brook out in the lonely woods. I heard the sparrows talking about it one day as they stood outside on the window sill. It happened long ago. It was in the middle of the winter. It was cold and dreary. But the sparrows talked in such happy voices that I had to listen."

"What did they say? Tell us!" the two shadows exclaimed.

"They spoke of flying over the fields and over the meadows, looking for a grain of food to eat. But the fields and meadows were covered with snow, and there was not even the tiniest seed to be found. And then they flew over the houses and gardens of the little town. But the doors were locked and the windows were tight shut, for the children had forgotten the sparrows and left no crumbs out for them. So they rose up and flew away and came to rest at last on a tree in the loneliest part of the woods."

A Friendly Voice

"And what happened next, Mrs. Cuckoo?"

"Then they thought that if they could only find a friendly voice they would feel better. And then all at once they heard a voice. It was the brook. It was just a tiny trickle, for the patches of snow almost covered it over. But it flowed around the patches of snow. And they heard it singing. It sang of the spring and the flowers that would be blooming in a few months. And the sparrows were happy to hear this song."

"What did they say? Tell us!"

"And did they fly back to the little town?"

Mrs. Cuckoo nodded. "Yes, they flew back. And there, in the first garden they came to, they found a great deal of crumbs. They felt as happy as the brook did. They chirped and they sang. They knew—just as the brook did—that everything would be lovely again soon. And that," said Mrs. Cuckoo as she pushed back her spectacles and took up her knitting once more, "is the story of the brook."

SETTLE DAMAGE CASE.

Settlement of the Donley-Stahl company and Carl C. Ewerth with Robert Knee for $1,000 because of injuries received on March 27 when he was struck by a truck of the Donley-Stahl company driven by Ewerth at 16th st. between J and H sts., was approved by County Judge Reid. An independent settlement was made with his parents for $1,500 of which amount $1,142 is to be applied to medical and hospital and other expenses. Roy Knee, father of the boy was guardian in the case. The suit filed in district court was dismissed with the making of the settlement.

MUST HALT BUSINESS TIDE

Carloadings Slump to 1932 Figures, Snell Says.

WASHINGTON. (UP). House Republican Leader Snell cited slumping carloading figures as proof that "we are much nearer the conditions of 1932 than everyone realizes. Carloadings are recognized as the best indicator of business in this country," Snell told the house. "Carloadings in the last week of November, 1937, were exactly the same as in the last week of November, 1932. During the first six weeks of 1938 carloadings were less than in the first six weeks of 1932. That is definite proof that if we are going back to normal we must do something to change the attitude of the administration toward the constructive business of the country."

Bowling Champs Never Repeat in ABC

By STEVE SNIDER.
Pinch Hitting for Henry McLemore

CHICAGO. (Copyright, 1938, UP). During the next 48 days, a troup of 24,675 bowlers will roll in the 38th American Bowling Congress tournament and the defending champions haven't a Chinaman's chance of retaining their titles.

Any little boy with a lifetime average no bigger than the size of his hat can get hot during the "sudden death" three game series of the ABC and the big guns know it.

He steps out there on the same glistening alleys, for the same length of time as the classiest match bowlers in the nation and if luck is riding with him, he may lick the champions.

There is no competitive sport which puts the skilled operator and the novice on such equal footing.

For this privilege, the little fellow pays heavily. Roughly, two-thirds of the record entry came along just for the ride and that long chance of getting hot. There was no qualifying round, nothing but an entry fee which happened to aggregate $297,100 for this tournament.

Spend Three Million.

Regardless of whether they have moneyed backers, most of the contestants whoop it up a trifle when they get to town and somewhere along the line the bowling brigade will drop an estimated $3,000,000 for shelter, food and merriment.

The ABC is strictly big business. Its 40 alleys cost $65,000, pins totaled almost $60,000 more, ABC expenses will hit $75,000, rental for the fortress-like coliseum is $25,000 and the whole works will run up to approximately $240,000.

As big business will, it gets a little rough at times and so-called home town booster teams, entered to increase the tournament quota, often have complained of being pushed around—but still they come back for their shot at the $199,100 in cash prizes.

Odds against any bowler, no matter how consistent, are terrific. Odds of 12 to 1 against a prizefighter — remember Max Schmeling?—now are prohibitive. Golfers sometimes are booked as high as 1,000 to 1, but the old timers have only one favorite in the 1938 AMC—Max Stein of Belleville, Ill.—and they give him one chance in 10,000. Max holds the world record for the ABC all events—where form begins to count.

No champion ever has defended his title successfully and only one man—Larry Sutton of Rochester, N. Y.—has won two singles championships. He won in 1909 and again in 1912.

But the little guy isn't worried. He's paid his money and he'll have his fun and take his turn on the alleys. Maybe this year or the next he'll have a lucky stream.

TRACK, WRESTLE AND SWIM TEAMS BATTLE FOR LEAGUE TITLES

Cinder Team Only One With Chance to Collect Crown.

IOWA STATE FAVORED

Cornhusker athletic teams will be competing on three fronts this weekend as the track, swimming and wrestling squads engage in the annual spring conference meets.

Coach Henry Schulte's track squad will be defending its indoor track title at Columbia, Mo. Pete Hagelin's tankers go to Norman, Okl., and Jerry Adam's matmen to Ames.

Only in track are the Scarlet given a chance to come thru and keen competition is expected from Kansas State and Missouri with Oklahoma an unknown quantity.

Nebraska, too, will be defending its swimming crown but failure of several of the outstanding performers to clear the scholastic hurdle, probably will mean that the Scarlet will have to be satisfied with a second or third spot. Iowa State is the favorite.

Iowa State Favored.

Cyclone grapplers are doped to win the mat title with most of the competition coming from Oklahoma and Kansas State. The entries:

BARNES NAMED COACH.

SPORTLIGHT by Grantland Rice

LOS ANGELES.—Recent action in the heavyweight division has left Joe Louis and Max Schmeling bracketed at the top—and no one else close to them. Jim Braddock defeated Tommy Farr and then retired. Returning travelers from New York bear out earlier reports that, while Jimmy Adamick had enough on hand to lick Harry Thomas, he still is a couple of years away from the first rank. Louis disposed of Nathan Mann. No matter whowins when Farr and Max Baer meet next week, it will No matter who wins when Farr and cinch that neither ever will beat Louis. It is extremely doubtful that Baer ever again could beat Schmeling, and Farr doesn't figure to, either.

This sums up the heavyweight situation at the moment, with the exception of Tony Galento, Roscoe Toles and Buddy Baer. Galento, while a rugged and courageous soul, is not much of a fighter. Toles has beaten Thomas, but that makes him only one on a long list. He would like to fight Adamick, and the bout would be a natural in Detroit, but Doc Kearns will have no part of it. Not right now, anyway. This indicates that Kearns thinks Adamick isn't ready for Toles yet, but it doesn't mean that Toles is anything like a great fighter. My information on him is that he is a pretty good fighter—but not much more than that. Buddy Baer has improved steadily, but still is quite a way off. He can punch, but he still has no defense. He has managed to slug out numerous victories, but a fighter must be able to do more than slug to get by a Louis or a Schmeling—or even a Galento.

BRINGING BACK MAX BAER.

If there are any other young heavyweights coming up out of the sticks or off the sidewalks, they haven't come up far enough to rate serious consideration. Indeed, the tipoff on the current activities of the heavyweights is that Mike Jacobs felt warranted in calling Max Baer back to work. Max lost to Braddock, was knocked out by Louis and outpointed by Farr. Against these, the only performance approaching a major victory he has to offer is his defeat of Ben Foord. He stopped Foord, which is more than Schmeling could do. But that was not exactly a startling performance, and if there were any youngsters punching their way up to the big time swiftly, there would have been no summons for the elder Baer.

TRAMMELL WINS NOD.

ST. LOUIS. (UP). Jack Trammell, Youngstown, O., Negro, won a ten round decision over Andre Lenglet, heavyweight champion of France here Tuesday night. Trammell weighed 184 and Lenglet 205.

White Sox May Provide Headache for Slugging Yankees This Year

Comiskey and Dykes Make No Predictions for 1938 Season.

BY STEVE SNIDER.

CHICAGO. (UP). Neither Owner Lou Comiskey nor Manager Jimmy Dykes is making any prediction—so watch out for the Chicago White Sox.

Between them, the Sox and Detroit Tigers have the power to cause the world champion New York Yankees a mighty headache all this season.

There was one known weakness on the Sox club last season and shrewd, cigar smoking Jimmy Dykes not only plugged the gaping hole at third base by snatching Marvin Owens from Detroit but he added a colorful slugger—Gerald "Gee" Walker—while swinging the deal.

It cost him a pitcher, but the Sox had plenty. The loss of Vern Kennedy, who couldn't find the plate all season, will not hurt the team.

On the infield again will be Henry "Zeke" Bonura, No. 1 holdout but a fair first baseman with a heavy bat when he gets around to signing, Minter "Jackie" Hayes at second, Luke Appling at short and Owen at third.

Bonura's Hitting Better.

Bonura hit .345 and Appling fell off in defense of his American league batting title but managed to hit .317. Hayes is the weak hitter, with .229. Owen had an average of .288 in 107 games last year.

The outfield may be more of a problem than Dykes expects. He apparently is dissatisfied with Rip Radcliffe who hit .325 in left field, little Mike Kreevich, one of the finest center fielders in the league despite his lack of size, will be back in center and Walker likely will be in right. Kreevich hit .302 and Walker .335.

Possibilities in left field included Larry Rosenthal and Henry Steinbacher who were with the club last season and Tommy Thompson, a husky outfielder, who hit .327 at San Diego, Thompson was up with the Boston Bees for three years.

Stratton Chief Hope.

Monty "Gander" Stratton, 6 foot 6 inch pitching star, is the chief hope of the Sox staff. The Gander won 15, lost 5 in between illnesses last year and had an earned run average of 2.40, second to Lefty Gomez. Johnny Whitehead (11-8), Teddy Lyons (12-7) and Thornton Lee (12-10) will support Stratton. Lee is the only left handed starting pitcher. Also on the roster are three left handed rookies and the veteran right handers, Clint Brown, Bill "No Hit" Dietrich and Young John Dungan Rigney who looked like a winner and seldom was.

Genial Luke Sewell, a master strategist and timely hitter despite his low average, will handle the catching along with George Rensa and possibly young Mike Tresh who came along in the Walker deal with Detroit.

Broadview Group Wants to Operate the Club for Golf

There's a possibility that the Broadview club, now in the hands of the bondholders, will operate as a golf club this summer.

J. J. Refsbauge, trustee for the bondholders, said he would be unable to make a statement until the receivership had been finally determined. He indicated that all offers would be welcomed but that he had no definite plan now. A group of former Broadview members are interested in maintaining the property as a golf club only.

All plans are in such a tentative stage that the group had no announcement to make.

Sale of the furnishings of the clubhouse along with other equipment is scheduled for March 9.

WASHINGTON DOCTOR WOULD BAR BOXING

SEATTLE. (AP). Dr. David C. Hall, director of the University of Washington heath service, advocated abolishing college boxing because it "often leads to student "punch drunkenness."

The campus physician, a former middleweight boxing and wrestling champion at Brown university, said "any sport, the object of which is to render an opponent unconscious is fundamentally wrong and should be abolished.

"The more acute the intellect, the more susceptible is the brain to injury. Blows to the head cause small hemorrhages of the brain. Continued concussions x x x finally result in 'punch drunkenness'."

TWO MIDWEST BOXERS SURVIVING AT CHICAGO

Jesse Salzar, Steve Locke Last of Omaha Team With Chance.

CHICAGO. (UP). If the midwest is to have a champion crowned at the Chicago Golden Gloves tournament the burden rests on Jesse Salzar, of Omaha and Steve Locke of Grand Island.

Tuesday night, the four heavier lads from the midwest were eliminated. First to fall, was Victor Marker of Scottsbluff who failed to solve the ring tactics of Savior Canadeo, veteran Chicago fighter, losing by a decision.

Billy Walsh, Hastings middleweight, suffered the region's first knockout of the tournament. George Mitchell, Negro from Kokomo, Ind., finished Walsh by the technical route in the first round.

Walter Fick, of Inman, Neb., 175 pounder, fought Joe Murdock, Negro of Detroit, toe to toe, but lost the decision by a narrow margin.

The Omaha heavyweight, Frank Gelecki, was technically knocked out by Jack Townsend of Ogden, Utah, in the second round.

Salzar and Locke are scheduled to fight on Wednesday's card.

One hundred and sixty amateur boxers from 46 cities, survivors of the first two rounds of fighting, will enter the third and quarter-final rounds.

The fights, staged in three rings stretched across the stadium floor, will feature candidates from all divisions—112 pounds, 118 pounds, 126 pounds, lightweights, welterweights, middleweights, light heavies, and heavyweights.

PATTY BERG BIDDING FOR 5TH GOLF CROWN

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (UP). Patty Berg of Minneapolis bids for her fifth golf title of the winter after winning qualifying honors in the Florida east coast championship from a field of near 40 women stars.

Patty carded a sub par 75 to go five strokes in front of her nearest rival, Mrs. Charles Newbold of Wichita, Kas., who fashioned an 80.

Patty meets Mrs. Jane Cothran Jameson of West Palm Beach, in the feature match of the first round. Mrs. Jameson qualified with an 84.

Wesleyan and Peru Win State College Basketball Championships

I May Be Wrong
By John Beniley

It's not going to surprise Coach Browne if the present basketball rules are changed at the next meeting of the committee. Wherever coaches have gathered this past season, there has been dissatisfaction expressed over the present code which penalizes the team that scores a basket by loss of the ball.

Browne is confident that the sentiment will be reflected in the 1939 rules. Some method of giving the team that scores, an equal opportunity to regain possession of the ball after the basket, will be brought back. It may mean the return of the tipoff and the two inch restriction. That would bring two centers together of nearly equal height, as neither could be more than two inches taller than the player jumping against him. It may mean rotating the players on jump balls.

Other suggestions have been made, many of them somewhat fantastic. But with the coaches in their present frame of mind, Browne sees another drastic change coming up.

Have the new rules cost the players in poundage? Bob Parsons wasn't sure but he knew that he had kept his weight all thru the season, barring a sick spell. He didn't notice any added stress or strain, either.

The same was true at Oklahoma where Hugh McDermott kept weight charts thruout the season. Seven of the ten Oklahoma players gained weight; one neither gained nor lost and two lost, one of them a pound, the other half a pound. The squad was examined twice by physicians during the season and there was no variance in any player's blood pressure or health rating.

Oklahoma plays the fast break style, and because of its location, met two opponents on successive nights in making the swing around the conference. There were no one game stands for the Sooners in Big Six competition.

Fred Easterday sat in front of a couple at the Nebraska-Kansas game. At one time when a foul was called against the Huskers, the man booed loud and long.

As the teams were trooping toward the free throw circle, the man said:

"I wonder what that foul was for?"

His feminine companion—Fred described her as "apparently his wife"—replied:

"You ought to know from the way you booed!"

Gordon Baker, manager at the Lincoln Country club, who is starting his 11th year in this capacity, is one of the oldest club managers in point of service in this part of the country...Price of the Omaha Country club, with 14 years service, is the only one to continuously serve one club longer than Baker...University of Oklahoma's golf team will play Stanford, Southern California, California and U. C. L. A. on a swing down the west coast....And the candidates are really trying to land a place on this year's team...Babe Hollingberry's Washington State eleven started a six weeks spring practice Monday and will hold an additional two weeks drill in May..

Nebraska swimmers hold seven of the ten records in the Big Six but it's hardly likely that any of the Huskers will add their names on this scroll during the conference championships at Norman this week end...Pete Hagelin's mark of 54.2 seconds in the 100 yard free style, set up last year, is in jeopardy as Haldeman of Iowa State has done 52.6 in this event..

Wonder whether Paul Amen will get a trial with the Browns or the Cardinals in major league baseball?...Maybe he has relatives in St. Louis and that's who he visits..Maybe...Eddie Brietz offers this feed box special in his Associated Press column: "Watch that Indiana football team next fall...If it doesn't turn out to be one of the country's big surprises, our dope is wrong...And grey haired Bo McMillin probably will want to murder us for tipping you off"...The Huskers play the Hoosiers here, Oct. 15...

HUMBOLDT TO REMAIN.

FALLS CITY, Neb. (AP). Humboldt high school remained a member of the Little Ten athletic conference despite an attempt by smaller schools to oust it. Smaller schools contended Humboldt dominated teh conference too much but opponents pointed out Humboldt won only 2 basketball title in 11 years.

LAURI WINS CUE MATCH.

NEW YORK. (UP). Onofrio Lauri of New York sought his second straight victory in the world's pocket billiard championship Wednesday. He met Joe Procita of Gloversville, N. Y., in the first of four tournament matches. Lauri was tied with five others, each with one victory, as the three week round robin tourney went into its third day. The others are Irving Crane of Livonia, N. Y.; Marcel Camp, Detroit; Willie Mosconi, Philadelphia; Andrew Ponzi, Philadelphia, and Joe Diehl, Rockford, Ill.

DOANE BUMPS MIDLAND

By United Press.

Two champions were crowned Wednesday in Nebraska college basketball ranks—Wesleyan in the N. C. A. C. conference and Peru Teachers in the N. I. A. A. circuit.

Wesleyan turned back Hastings college, 32 to 31, on the Hastings court Tuesday night to give Coach Dwight Thomas a conference basketball title in his first year as coach at the Methodist school.

In the N. I. A. A. loop, Peru handed Wayne its first setback on the home floor in two years, 48 to 46. Peru finished the conference season unbeaten.

Three thousand fans saw the Wesleyan-Hastings championship game. Hastings took an early lead but Wesleyan found the range and held a 23 to 20 lead at the half. Wesleyan stayed in front the rest of the way except for a 25-all tie with 10 minutes to play. Dutcher, Hastings center, missed a free throw in the closing seconds that would have tied up the game.

Hedges Paces Wesleyan.

Dell Hedges, star forward, scored 12 points for Wesleyan. Dick Marvel, giant Hastings center, had a big night. He rolled in 20 points. Wesleyan won an earlier game from Hastings, 31 to 30.

Meanwhile, Doane nosed out Midland, 41 to 40, at Fremont, to share second place in the N. C. A. C. standings with Hastings. Don Kristufek tallied 20 points for Doane and Mike Brock scored 15 for Midland. Doane was ahead at halftime, 19 to 18.

Peru had to come from behind to beat Wayne, McCormick tossing the winning basket in the final minutes. Peru led at the half, 20 to 19.

WAYNE'S FIRST COACH HAS SON ON CAGE FIVE

WAYNE, Neb. (AP). To Prof. E. J. Huntemer, oldest member of the Wayne State Teachers college faculty in point of service and the first coach of Wayne athletic teams, goes the honor of being the first faculty member to have a son letter in a major sport at the college.

A letter was awarded recently to his son, Jean, who altho weighing only 150 pounds, saw considerable service last fall as quarterback on the college football team. He is also a member of the varsity basketball squad and has appeared in a number of games this season at guard.

Prof. Huntemer, head of the industrial arts department, has served on the staff 29 years. He is the only present faculty member who taught at the college before it became a state institution.

Other faculty members who may have sons win letters within the next year or two are Coach Ray Hickman and Prof. F. G. Dale. Coach Hickman's son, Bob, is a senior in Wayne Prep and has been active in football, basketball and track. Prof. Dale, instructor in geography, has two sons; one in high school, the other in the eighth grade.

PARIS (UP). The question of postponing the 1940 Olympics until October because of Tokyo's torrid midsummer heat will be settled at the annual meeting of the International Olympic committee meeting in Cairo, Egypt, next week.

CLARENCE MUNN JOINS MICHIGAN GRID STAFF

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UP). Clarence Munn, Syracuse university line coach for the past year, was released from contractural obligations to accept a similar post at the University of Michigan.

Fritz Crisler, who recently resigned his Princeton position to accept the head coaching job at Ann Arbor, was Munn's mentor when the latter won All America honors at Minnesota. Syracuse athletic authorities said Munn's two year contract was waived in view of the unusually bright future awaiting him at Michigan.

Charlie "Bud" Wilkinson, another Minnesota product and assistant coach here for one season, will advance to the head line coach's job.

YEARLING PUNTERS AND PASSERS NOT PLEASING COACHES

Lack of Consistency Stands Out in Early Drills of Huskers.

MUCH WORK LIES AHEAD

BY WALTER E. DOBBINS.

"We have a long, hard grind ahead of us. Plenty of work before next fall rolls around. Take for instance our kickers and passers. Ever notice the difference between Phelps and Porter as compared to the abilities of our frosh punters and passers, Hopp, Knight and Francis?"

It was Maj. Jones speaking after he had seen his charges go thru their paces on their second afternoon outside.

Yes, we had noticed the difference. Phelps and Porter had more distance, greater height and more finesse. Most of their kicks were averaging around 50 yards while the yearling booters would get off a 60 yard kick here and there only to see the next one slip off the side of their respective feet and go haywire.

It was the same way with the passing. Phelps and Porter were finding the range and hitting the target. The others weren't as consistent. Their passes lobbed at times and there was a tendency to overpass. That probably is what the Biffer meant when he said, "We have a lot of work ahead of us."

They Need Work.

In other words the freshmen, some of whom have been touted highly, have a long way to go before they can move out some of the veteran gridders.

The old axiom that there is no substitute for experience fits in well with football and the major knows this only too well as he looks over his Husker charges.

Tuesday afternoon the Husker staff had three full teams working out as separate units and a couple of other elevens where the candidates were changing positions.

In the first group were Lloyd Grimm and Bob Kahler, ends; Sam Schwartzkopf and Bob Mills, tackles; Bill Pfeiff and Adna Dobson, guards; Charley Brock, center; and a backfield that included Jack Dodd, Bill Callihan, Thurston Phelps and Marvin Plock.

The second unit found Ken Shindo and Ray Prochaska, ends; Vernon Neprud and Edgar Thompson, tackles; Arlo Klum and Warren Alfson, guards; Bob Burruss, center; Hugo Hoffman, Bill Andreson, George Porter and Herman Rohrig, backs.

Use Third Group.

A third group found Fred Preston and Jack Ashburn, ends; Paul Goetowski and Forrest Behm, tackles; Leonard Muskin and Bill Hermann, guards and Fred Meier, center; Walter Luther, Edsel Wibbels, Vike Francis and Harry Hopp, backs.

Five more candidates turned out for practice Tuesday afternoon, swelling the total number to 78 men. The latest additions were Burdell Prochazka, Omaha; Bill Kinyoun, Lincoln; Paul Miller, Lincoln; Bruce Corn, Papillion and Clarence Herndon, Grand Island.

Herndon will not be eligible until 1939 but he is losing no time preparing himself. He enrolled at midyear.

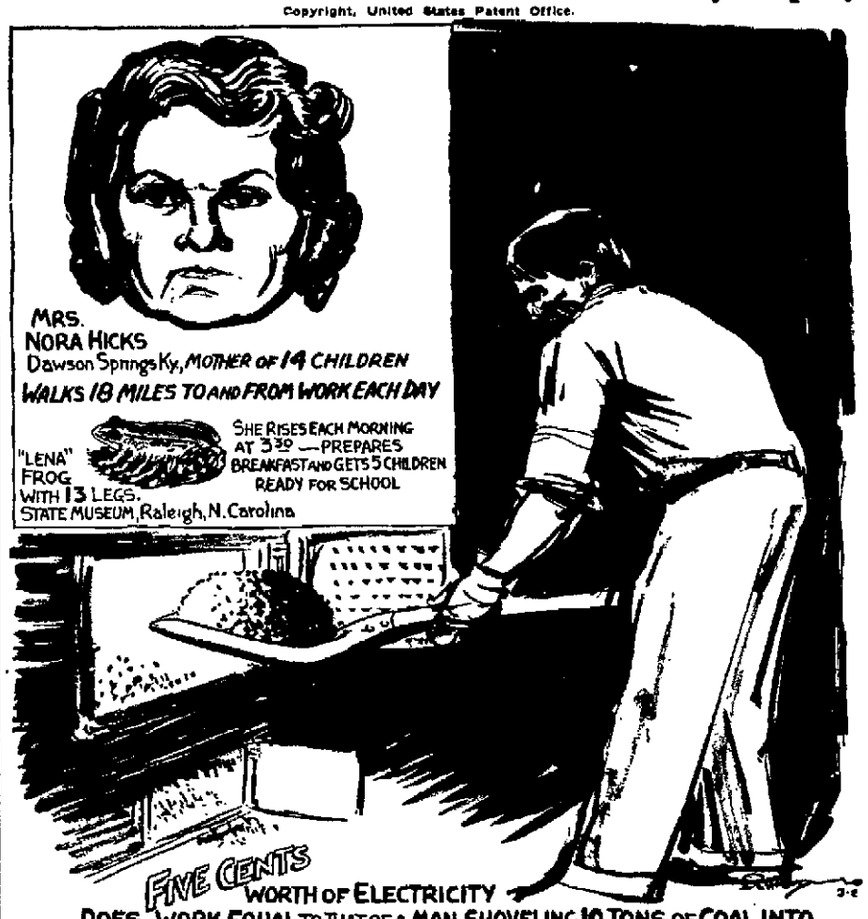

TIGERS HANG 58 TO 13 LICKING ON TECUMSEH

FALLS CITY, Neb. (AP). The veteran Falls City basketball team came thru with a 58-13 victory over Tecumseh to start the ball rolling in the 1938 class A regional high school basketball race. It was Tuesday's only game.

The undefeated Falls City cagers will meet Auburn in their first round match Thursday. Tuesday's tussle was a preliminary game to cut the field to eight in that tourney.

FIVE CENTS WORTH OF ELECTRICITY WORK. A nickel's worth of electricity used at home is one kilowatt hour of electricity. One kilowatt hour, according to electrical engineers and scientists, equals exactly 2,655,200 foot pounds. A man shoveling coal into a firebox or a furnace lifts the coal a little more than 30 inches from the floor. After he has shoveled one ton of coal he has, therefore, done a little more than 5,000 foot pounds of work, and 10 tons during the year represents 50 odd thousand pounds. In 50 years about 2,650,000 foot pounds of work would be done—equal to only 5 cents worth of work done by man's great friend, electricity.

Brothers Baer Stir Things Up in Lakewood as They Train for Bouts

Max Will Meet Tommy Farr, Buddy Tackles Gunnar Barlund.

BY JOHN LARDNER.

Copyright by the NANA (The Lincoln Journal and other newspapers)

LAKEWOOD, N. J.—The Baer family has made a great stir in this town, where two of its principal voting members, Max and Jacob "Buddy," are training for a pair of fights in the near future.

MAX BAER

Buddy meets Gunnar Barlund, the stout Finn, this coming Friday. A week later Max will wreak a terrible vengeance upon the person of Tommy Farr, the Welshman who outstroked him last year in a country minuet in London, England. Both Baers promise to decapitate their opponents without delay, and when a Baer gives his word, he either keeps it or he doesn't, no matter what the odds.

Since Buddy is still a youth, and still coming along, most of the town's interest centers in his brother, the bony Maxwelton, who was once champion. The town thinks Max is quite a guy, and Max does not contest the point. As a gesture of esteem and welcome, the town's press agent called around at the Baer headquarters not long ago and offered to make Max famous.

Offers Heroic Role.

"I will make a hero out of him," said the publicist.

"How?" said Mr. Ancil Hoffman, manager of the Baers, to whom the scheme sounded visionary, at best.

"Well, the world questions Max's courage, don't it?" said the tub thumper.

"No, it don't," said Mr. Hoffman, annoyed.

"The world has its doubts about Max's courage," continued the bugler, "and we will settle them. We will make him a hero, not forgetting at the same time to mention the fair name of Lakewood. We will have him rescue a girl."

"From what?" said Mr. Hoffman.

"Well, from a runaway horse."

"Would a horse run away from Lakewood?" said Mr. Hoffman, putting his thumb on the flaw in the plan.

"No, you're right, it wouldn't," said the trumpeter hastily. "All our horses are satisfied to build in Lakewood and watch it grow. We will have Max rescue the girl from drowning."

"Do the girls go swimming in February?" asked Mr. Hoffman.

This baffled the town herald. He toyed for a while with the idea of having Max fish the maiden out of a hole in the ice, but was forced to admit that Mr. Baer might sit for hours beside the hole without getting a strike, so lean is the sport at this time of year.

Max will be the short ender in his bout with Thomas Farr. Farr is younger, keener, and faster than the shy pecan from Livermore, and he licked Max his last time out. But that doesn't disturb Mr. Baer. "I'll probably kill him," says Max playfully.

Buddy Talks Sense.

All the sense in the Baer family is talked by young Buddy, who says he thinks Max has a good chance to win.

"In that London fight," says Buddy, "Max did more damage to Farr in 12 rounds than Louis did in 15. He gave him a good polishing and I thought he won. Anyway, I think he'll win this time. He's serious about coming back, and if he loses, it won't be because he didn't try."

It's true that Max seems to be trying pretty hard, but there is a look of strain about his work that makes you wonder if he'll ever be the same eager, rugged fellow who knocked out Schmeling. His appetite for fighting is all gone. His right hand is slow. He never had much else.

Buddy is the Baer of the future. The boys are predicting that he will be champion of the world in two years, and it's probably true that he will whip Barlund Friday and go on to mix with the good ones.

CLASS B CHURCH LOOP ENDS 1937-38 SEASON

Four games wound up season's play in class B Church league Tuesday night as First Baptist routed Normal, 36 to 7. Trinity knocked off Calvary, 21 to 24. First Evangelical stepped on Union, 21 to 24 and United Presbyterian yanked thru Second Presbyterian, 41 to 3. Hansen took the evening's scoring honors as he garnered seven fielders for United Presbyterian.

Don Schellberg, who directed the tourney ruled that Monday night's protested game, which Plymouth won, 28 to 24 over Lutheran, was a valid game and should stand in the records.

LINKS MEET HAVELOCK

Altho opening shots in the class A regionals were fired Tuesday evening at Falls City, the big drive toward Lincoln and a chance at state championship honors for class A and B teams begins Wednesday with 16 of the 24 regional centers slated to start the weeding out process.

The two regionals on deck for Lincoln are slated to be among the closest waged in the state. In the class A meet at Nebraska Wesleyan, Coach Ralph Beechner's Lincoln high quintet bumps up against Havelock, which closed its season by upsetting Bethany, 24 to 20, and Jackson collides with the lowly Teachers high five.

At the Ag college, where the B meet holds forth, all four of the opening games are expected to be hotly contested. Defending champions Bethany will have much trouble against Papillion's lanky five in the headliner, while Ceresco and Waverly have slight edges over Syracuse and Bennet, respectively, and the Louisville-Mead battle is booked as a tossup.

The Falls City meet, which opened Tuesday with undefeated Falls City trimming Tecumseh in a preliminary round, will hit its stride Wednesday with two top notch games and two that are slated to be not quite so close. Seeded Wymore may have unexpected trouble with Plattsmouth and the Pawnee City-Fairbury dual should develop into a real scrap, while Beatrice should romp over Nebraska City and Falls City won't have too much trouble with Auburn.

Three battles are on tap at Fremont, Wahoo advancing into the second round with a forfeit over Tekamah. Undefeated Schuyler, Columbus and Fremont are favorites to knock off David City, Blair and South Sioux City respectively.

The four Norfolk favorites, Ainsworth, Pierce, Wayne and Norfolk should trot thru their first round tests.

Fireworks at Omaha.

Fireworks will be set off at Omaha with Omaha Benson facing Omaha South, who dumped them earlier in the season, and Creighton Prep due to have an acid test with Tech. Holding the York spotlight is the Hebron-York fracas with Hastings expected to run wild at St. Paul's expense in the semiwindup.

In the class B tourneys, Holbrook should wallop Oxford at Arapahoe, with the Atkinson headliner pairing the home clan and Springview. The Rising City-Ulysses match holds the majority of interest at Benedict, with St. Edward stacked up against Osceola in the topnotch battle at Columbus.

Humboldt Favored.

Topping the four game card at Geneva is the Shickley-Deshler tilt, and Humboldt should romp thru St. Bernards of Nebraska City at Humboldt. Kenesaw meets Overton, St. Marys of Grand Island tackles Gibbon and Franklin faces Ravenna in much heralded bouts at Kearney.

Laurel clashes with Winside in the Wayne headliner, and Walthill attempts to pierce the stout Clarkson defense at West Point. Lincoln pairings:

CLASS A, WESLEYAN.
Wednesday.

7:30 Lincoln vs. Havelock.
8:30 Jackson vs. Teachers.

CLASS B, AG COLLEGE.
Wednesday.

6 p. m. Ceresco vs. Syracuse.
7 p. m. Bethany vs. Papillion.
8 p. m. Louisville vs. Mead.
9 p. m. Waverly vs. Bennet.

IOWA STATE FAVORED BIG SIX SWIM MEET

George Haldeman Expected Lead Cyclones to Victory in Water Test.

NORMAN, Neb.—Coach Charles McCafree's Cardinal and Gold swimming team from Iowa State college will be favored by a couple of pool lengths to sweep the Big Six conference swimming meet in the new $60,000 Oklahoma U., pool here Friday and Saturday.

Led by George Haldeman, conference record-holder in the breast stroke who has branched out this year in the free style also, having fled thru 60 yards in 30.9 seconds, 100 in 56.8 and 220 in 2:23.6, the Cyclones defeated Nebraska, last year's champions, 57 to 18 after Nebrsska had caulked Kansas State 65 to 10 and Kansas 56 to 28.

Since Missouri won't have a team, Iowa State already has taken care of about everybody save Coach Bruce Drake's Oklahoma Sooners who have organized their first team in six years and consequently lack balance and experience.

Individual Standouts.

Individual swimmers who should stand out in the meet include Haldeman, Wempe, Ferguson, Armstrong, Simons and Harris of Iowa State, P. Ritchie, Brown, White and Nowossinshe of Kansas, Spicer, Reddick, Davidson and Leask of Nebraska; Pattison and Brown of Kansas State and Cisar, Anderson, Long Prince, McCall and Jarrett of Oklahoma. Six Six conference records for all lengths of pools are:

50 yards—24 4s by Lynde, Neb., 1936
60 yards—30s by Hagelin, Neb., 1937.
100 yards—54.2s by Hagelin, Neb., 1937.
220 yards—2m.23.2s by Barry, Neb., 1937.
440 yards—5m.23.2s by Barry, Neb., 1937.
150 yards back stroke—1m.47.5s by Davis, Okl., 1936.
200 yards breast stroke—2m 36 6s by Haldeman, Iowa State., 1937.
Fancy diving—136.7 pts. by Fiely, Iowa State, 1931.
300 yards medley relay—3m 19 9s by Neb. (Galvin, Thomson, Lynde), 1936.
400 yards free style relay—3m 47.7s by Neb. (Dort, Leask, Ludwick, Krause), 1937.

Y. M. C. A. BOXERS NAMED FOR TOURNEY

Lincoln Y. M. C. A. boxing teams which will compete in the state Y tournament here March 7 were named by Harold Matthews. Those competing will include Keith Mills and Don Hansen, middleweights; Henry Jacoby, light heavyweight; Kenneth Mills, George Michel, Willard Shellhase, welterweights; Bob Boucher, lightweight; Truman Clare, featherweight; Russell Rowland, flyweight.

Entries from Norfolk, Hastings, Beatrice and Omaha will also compete.

ROH TOPS CITY OPEN SCORING WITH EIGHT

Roh's 8 points were the best scoring effort put forth in Tuesday's play as he paced his Tiger Coal mates to a 30 to 22 victory over C. Y. C. in the city open cage tourney. Cossacks, behind Mills' eight, dumped A. Z. A., 20 to 12, and K. of P. outlasted Golds, 13 to 8. Miller of Millers scored 9 as he led his team over Pirates, 27 to 15. In the other game, Omar edged First Christian, 17 to 15. Wednesday's games.

Class B: 7, First Presbyterian vs. Spartans: 7:20. First Baptist vs. Sidles; 8:10, Rudges vs. Trinity; 8:25, Terminal vs Quinns; 9:20, H. A. C. vs. Emerald.

CYCLONES SLATED TO WIN WRESTLING MEET

Kansas State, Oklahoma Are Strongest Bets to Push Iowa State Team.

AMES, Ia.—One of the closest Big Six conference wrestling tournaments in history is forecast for Friday and Saturday when four of the loop teams gather in State gymnasium here. Oklahoma and Kansas State will give Iowa State a real battle in their defense of the title and Nebraska may take enough points from any two contenders to give the laurels to the other.

The defending champion Cyclones are favored to repeat in light of their unbeaten record in dual meet competition. Coach Hugo Otopalik's octet has won eight straight matches, six of them with Big Ten conference schools.

Kansas State was second last year with Oklahoma third. The Wildcats have their strongest team in history this winter, while the Sooner squad is on par with the one of last season. Nebraska has only two real strong individual contenders.

Oklahoma Has Lead.

Oklahoma has a slight lead in the matter of team wrestling championships since the formation of the Big Six in 1929. The Sooners have won four titles; Iowa State, three, and Kansas State, two. The Cyclones, however, have taken six second places to Oklahoma's two and the Wildcats' one. None of the other Big Six schools have broken into the first two positions.

Four of the 1937 individual loop champions will be back this week end to defend their titles. Dale Duncan, Kansas State 135 pounder, will move up a weight this season while Charles Robertson, Oklahoma champ in the 165, will shift down to the 155. Marshall Word, Sooner 175 pounder, and Al Stoecker, Iowa State heavyweight, will defend their championships in these weights.

Bowling

LADIES LEAGUE.

M. Mulder was the best keeler on the alleys Tuesday night as she won high individual team and series laurels with 217 and 533; but it did her College Inn mates little good as they were the victims of a two out of three licking at the hands of Zollers. Bob Robinsons rolled up 798 markers for best team game, beating Messers in two of their three contests. Moderns final team series of 2259 topped squad scoring as they downed Pali Mall, two out of three contests.

In other matches, Lincoln Ladies clean swept Coca Cola an Spencer & Yost dumped Dr. Pepper in two out of three.

DEKS LEAGUE.

The Bob's Coffee five must not live right! It swept every scoring effort but still was dropped by Dr. Pepper, two out of three. The team had a 824-973-879-2678 record for best team performance and Irwin chalked up a 192-225-245-662 score that netted individual honors.

All other games but one were decided by two out of three. Windsor disposed of B. E. R. S.; Chris Beck's dropped Seven Up; Liberty Bakers nudged Cleo Cities and Budweiser victimized Globe Finance. In the odd match, Brown Package bumped Mills Insurance.

"WE'RE NOT DRESSING"

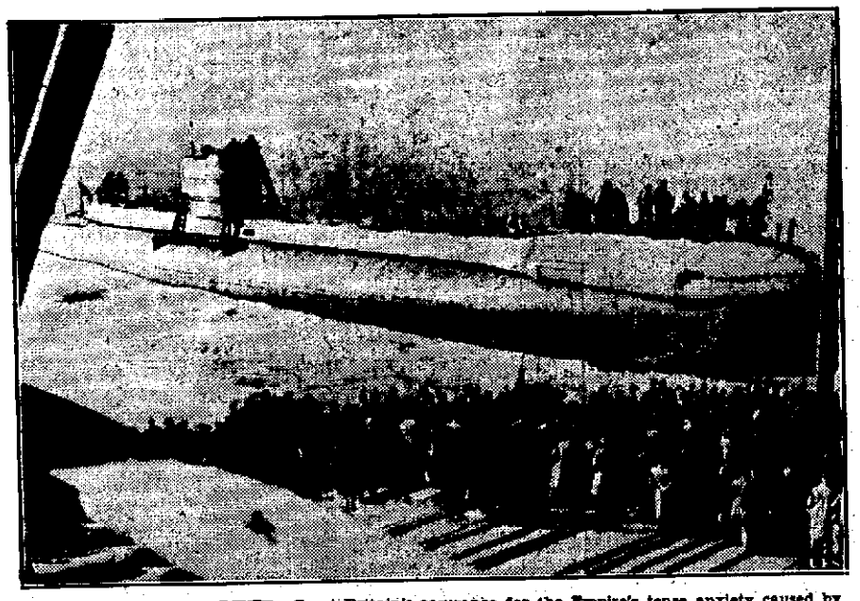

No, today we don't dress for driving. Gone is the necessity for bundling oneself up in the characteristic long duster, peaked cap, and goggles. Driving today has been made a pleasure. It was an expensive thrill in the "good old days," when a car cost several thousand dollars.

Today, the thrill is there, made comfortable, but the expense is gone. You'll find, by looking through the Want Ad Section of The Journal and Star, that a practically new used car may be obtained for a few hundred dollars. Look through these columns and make your selection today. You'll be more than satisfied with what you find.

WOMAN WITNESS IN KANSAS CITY FRAUD

Testifies She Was Paid $100 for Her Part in the Election Count.

KANSAS CITY. (AP). Sensational testimony that James Pendergast had provided money to pay republican city committeemen "an agreement" to countenance a "big pad"—padded democratic registration rolls—was written into Kansas City's eleventh vote fraud trial records.

The federal court jury also heard that a democratic worker said the T. J. "Boss" Pendergast democratic organization had contributed to g. o. p. campaign funds in return for acceptance of "ghost votes."

Mrs. Elva O'Byrne, a republican committeewoman who pleaded guilty, said she was paid $100 in an "agreement" prior to the election by Mrs. France Ryan only woman ward leader in the Pendergast organization.

The witness quoted Mrs. Ryan as saying: "I've had a time getting this money; I had to make two trips to see Jimmy Pendergast."

Mrs. O'Byrne also testified she talked with Mrs. Ryan after the election, which resulted in a sweeping victory for the Pendergast organ-ation. "Mrs. Ryan said to me that Jimmy Pendergast had told them to give the republicans 2,500 votes in the Twelfth ward and we had given them only between 1,300 and 1,400," Mrs. O'Byrne testified.

"She said that he said he didn't like it, but that she could tell by his actions he was more than pleased."

James Pendergast was in charge of the organization at the time of the election during the illness of his uncle, T. J. Pendergast. In the previous 10 trials 50 persons have been convicted of conspiracy to commit vote frauds by not counting votes and changing ballots from republican to democratic.

Mrs. Ryan, democratic leader of the Twelfth ward, is one of six democratic defendants in the twelfth trial.

Mrs. O'Byrne testified Lester Aulgur, republican committeeman, also was paid $100 in "the agreement" and that the two were given $40 to split between them for "taking out" republican judges.

SENATOR BERRY LOSES OUT

Tennessee Marble Properties Said of No Value.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP). A three member federal commission reported the marble properties of Sen. George L. The celebrated case came to an undramatic close when the commissioners signed the report in the case that had its reverberations on the floors of the U. S. senate.

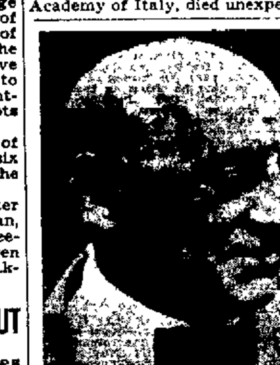

MAY COLONIZE NEGROES

JACKSON, Miss. (AP). Senator Bilbo predicts Negroes eventually will vote in Mississippi and control the south unless they are colonized. He suggested they be sent to Africa, and said he would offer an amendment to the $250,000,000 federal appropriation for emergency relief to provide an "adequate sum" for transporting them to Liberia, African Negro republic that has invited Negro colonization.

GABRIELE D'ANNUNZIO DEAD AT ITALIAN HOME

Warrior-Poet Once Defied His Government in a Military Move.

GARDONE RIVIERA, Italy. (AP). Gabriele d'Annunzio, Italy's great warrior-poet, symbol of Italian nationalism and president of the Academy of Italy, died unexpectedly in his villa Vittoriale. A cerebral hemorrhage caused his death. He would have been 75 years old March 12. The body of the poet, who defied his own government to capture and hold Fiume after the World war and who later became a symbol of the nationalist dreams of fascism, lay Tuesday night in the death chamber he built for himself in his villa on the shores of Lake Garda.

URGES GENEROUS SUBSIDY

Conant Says Deserving Students Can't Attend School.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP). At least 25 percent—and maybe 50 percent—of the students doing advanced work in American universities should be supplanted by more talented youths who can't afford to go to college, President James Bryant Conant of Harvard university said. He told the American Association of School Administrators that less than 5 percent of American families have incomes of $5,000 a year or more, and consequently universities are bidding against each other for their children, while brighter youngsters of poorer families miss opportunities. Dr. Conant said there was only one way to provide university education for the promising youths "now debarred by economic and geographic factors" and that is by "generous subsidy—large scholarships or opportunities for earning sizable amounts of money."

WALLACE WILL NOT COMPLY

Not to Impose Further Sugar Import Restrictions.

WASHINGTON. (AP). Secy. Wallace said Tuesday night he would not accede to "demands" of representatives of the American sugar beet growers and processors that he impose further import restrictions on sugar to increase prices. His statement was made in a letter to Senator Bulkley (d., O.), replying to the latter's request for comment on a communication from the Farmers andn Manufacturers Beet Sugar association. Wallace said the communication carried a "demand that some action be taken to increase the price of sugar." He also said the communication contended that the "sugar quotas are too large and that hence the prices are too low."

The present sugar program allots shares of the domestic sugar market among American, Cuban, Philippine, Puerto Rican and other foreign producers.

WPA TO MAKE MORE JOBS

Nebraska Quota Scheduled for Increase to 27,350.

CHICAGO. (UP). WPA authorities have authorized addition of 216,000 persons to WPA rolls in 11 midwestern states, Regional Director Hunter announced.

The increase, contingent upon presidential signature to the $250,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill on which congress completed action Tuesday, affects every state in Hunter's territory except two. North and South Dakota will be kept on their February employment quotas.

The new authorization increases regional quotas from 720,750 for February to 936,750 for March. This means an increase for Nebraska from 24,850 to 27,350.

HEARST TO SELL HIS ART

Some to Be Gifts to Cut Inheritance Tax.

NEW YORK. (AP). A decision by William Randolph Hearst to dispense about $15,000,000 worth of his fabulous art collection—about two-thirds of it—was announced by associates. The 74 year old publisher, plans to break up the vast collection by sale and gift in order to cut down inheritance taxes his heirs must pay when he dies.

MORTON NAMED TREASURER

Chicago Salt Man to Draw Up G. O. P. Budget.

CHICAGO. (UP). Members of the republican committee on program returned home to take soundings of public opinion on a national scale, the first move toward reinterpretation of party policies for the 1940 elections. The committee, divided the nation into nine regional groups and named chairmen of each area to direct the survey.

Frank Altschul, Stamford, Conn., banker, was appointed chairman of the finance committee. Sterling Morton, Chicago salt manufacturer, named treasurer and chief disbursing officer, was instructed to draw up a budget. The program committee, Frank said, will finance itself independently.

FREDERIC HARTFORD DEAD

Celebrated 100th Birthday Jan. 26.

CEDAR BLUFFS, Neb. (AP). Frederic Hartford, who celebrated his 100th birthday last Jan. 26, died Monday night. Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at Charles Bignell's home 9 miles southwest of here.

Frederic Hartford.

Hartford, the oldest man in Saunders county, came to the United States from Germany in 1860. In 1874 he homesteaded northwest of Cedar Bluffs, and lived there until his wife's death eight years ago. Since then, he had lived with his daughter, Mrs. Bignell. Other survivors are a daughter, Mrs. Leonard Johnson of Fremont, and a son, Fred Hartford, jr., who lives on the family homestead.

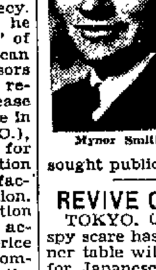

STAY-IN STRIKE BROKEN UP

Detroit Group Evicted From Brass Factory.

DETROIT. (AP). The stay-in strike apparently has had its day in Detroit. For the first time since Richard W. Reading became mayor on Jan. 1 a group of workers took possession of a plant and were evicted by police. The incident occurred at the plant of the Consolidated Brass company where three strikers shut off the power and halted operations. Cots, bedding and food were taken in and the management appealed to police.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Will you kindly settle a three cornered argument over the enclosed hand, which occurred last night in a duplicate game? My partner and I reached seven no trump and East doubled. Now for the argument!

"1. My partner claims that I was a nitwit to conceal my club suit and that we should have played the hand in seven clubs, which would have been an absolute laydown.

"2. I claim that my bidding, although unorthodox, was perfectly sound at match point duplicate and that in my quest for a high score on the board I was justified in trying for a no trump grand slam, rather than a minor suit grand slam which, I felt many other teams would make.

"3. My partner and I agree on only one thing, and that is that East had unmitigated gall to double the seven no trump, even though the double was successful; that he was darned lucky that his partner, instead of either North or myself, had the jack of diamonds.

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
Match point duplicate.

SOUTH

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
5 diamonds	Pass	6 no trump	Pass
7 diamonds	Double	7 no trump	Pass
Pass	Double	Redouble	Pass
Pass	Pass

"Obviously my three diamond jump takeout was an effort to stall off a diamond lead against the no trump contract upon which I already had decided. I didn't know exactly how far I was going in no trump. That depended on partner's responses, but when he jumped from three to five diamonds my seven sure tricks looked pretty good. When East doubled the seven diamonds I was sure he was doubling on length in the suit, and secretly laughed up my sleeve when I thought about the five clubs I was going to run. Unfortunately I still found myself one trick short, five clubs, two spades, two hearts, and three diamonds [West opened a spade].

"Do you think that my bidding was really bad? And please express your opinion about East's double.

"Yours truly, G. R. D., Chicago."

I cannot be highly critical of South's bidding. Since he was playing match point duplicate, in which no trump enjoys an appreciable advantage over suit contracts, and since he always could go back to no trump no matter how high his partner raised in diamonds, I do not feel that the "phoney" three diamond force was bad, although my personal preference is toward honest bidding. However, I should like to point out, very gently, that if a player indulges in psychic bidding he should be able to protect himself by expert play of the cards.

The seven no trump was as cold as ice and this, of course, is sufficient commentary on East's double. Declarer should have seen that his one chance to take thirteen tricks depended on a squeeze. East was marked with a diamond stopper. If he also had as many as three hearts the squeeze was bound to succeed. Declarer should have won the spade opening lead, cashed dummy's ace and king of hearts, cashed the other spade trick, and run off his five clubs. Dummy's 10-7-5 of hearts should have been discarded on the second spade trick and the two long clubs. Now declarer would be left with one spade, one heart, and the queen and one diamond, and dummy with its original four diamonds. East could tear up his cards, for all the good they would do him. With only four cards left, he would have to hold four diamonds to stop the suit and thus would have to let go his queen of hearts. Declarer's heart four would be promoted to a full trick, and thirteen tricks would become a cakewalk. Yes, I must say that East was pretty lucky!

NIEMOELLER IS GIVEN SEVEN MONTHS TERM

Has Already Served Time; Preacher Also Must Pay 1,500 Mark Fine.

BERLIN. (UP). Rev. Martin Niemoeller World war hero and militant leader of the opposition movement in the Evangelical church was sentenced to seven months imprisonment in a fortress and fined twice for defying the government. One fine was of 500 marks ($200). The other was 1,500 marks ($600). As Niemoeller was credited with the months he had already served, it was conceded that he had given satisfaction as to the prison sentence and the smaller fine. But he will not be leased until he has paid the larger one.

Niemoeller went on trial before a secret court Feb. 7 on four charges of defying the government in its campaign for nazification of the Evangelical church. He had been in prison since July 1 last.

AFRAID OF OWN COLONIES

Syrian Visiting at Kearney Offers His Theory.

KEARNEY, Neb. (AP). Dr. Hanna Abdallah, Syrian physician who is visiting relatives in central Nebraska, said "England is not afraid of Germany—she's afraid of her own colonies." He said that is the reason Britain is "stepping gently" in European affairs these days.

"In the event of war, there would be uprisings against English rule not only in Palestine and Egypt (near Dr. Abdallah's home) but also in India and possibly other spots in the eastern hemisphere," he added.

HEADS YOUNG DEMO'S.

NEW YORK. (AP). The stock market loitered indecisively after small offerings had dragged leading shares down fractions to more than a point. Near the final hour trading slowed almost to a standstill. Speculators were reluctant to follow the market on the dip and some stocks rallied feebly from the day's lows. A few shares held moderate gains. Transfers were at the rate of about 450,000 shares.

Speculation marked time while traders looked to Washington and industrial centers for significant news. Selling, brokers said, was restrained by hope of a spring upturn from the present low levels of factory production. At the same time curtailment of public buying power from unemployment, dividend cuts and omissions and scattered salary cuts dampened optimism. Dealings were about the quietest of recent weeks, with only 170,000 shares changing hands on the "big board" in the forenoon.

Possibility the tax bill would undergo more extensive revision on the senate side than in the house was widely discussed in financial quarters. But traders seemed content to wait for tangible developments.

Steel, motor, chemical, farm equipment and other groups drifted down from the tops of last week's rally. The extended stay in a restricted trading area left market followers without a clue to the main trend.

Rail shares encountered moderate offerings. Suspense over the anticipated ICC decision on the freight rate increase request heightened. Armament stocks also lagged in face of England's plans for pushing its five year spending program on war machinery and enlargement of its air force.

Wall street analysts scanned business news for signs of a spring upturn. "The "Iron Age" noted steel manufacturers were finding indications of improvement, altho new orders have not increased sufficiently to expand the industry's operations. Sales offices in many steel consuming districts, the trade publication reported, "find a better feeling among consumers." A sharp spring rise in motor production, analysts held, would be necessary to pull most producers back to profit making levels.

Electric power output for the week ended last Saturday pointed to little actual change in the business pace. The total for the whole country was off 8 percent compared with the 1937 week against a year to year drop of 6.9 the preceding week.

FOREIGN MARKETS AT A GLANCE.

LONDON. (AP). Leading securities moved irregularly in Wednesday's stock market in the absence of supporting orders and trading was on a very narrow scale. Mexican supreme court and home rails were heavy. Transatlantic issues held steady and finished with net gains of as much as one point. British funds and rubbers were neglected and foreign bonds moved slightly upward.

PARIS.—The deadlock over the labor bill caused an unsettled condition in the bourse and prices were mixed at the close. Banking issues finished about unchanged while industrials showed fractional changes in either direction. Suez Canal gained about 100 francs and Royal Dutch was up 22 francs.

STEEL OUTPUT.

NEW YORK. (AP). Rising demand for steel was reported by "Iron Age" in its weekly review of the steel industry. "Steel manufacturers this week found many signs of improvement in business altho maintenance of the national ingot production rate at 30 percent, unchanged from last week, suggests that increased buying of some steel products is not yet substantial enough to indicate a definite uptrend is near," the publication said.

"Nevertheless, sales offices in many steel consuming areas find a better feeling among consumers and report actual buying for February shows gains ranging as high as 30 percent above January. More significant than the steel operating rate's inability to rebound in the first week of March are the fair prospects for revision of the controversial undistributed profits tax, a breaking of the used car jam, a favorable freight rate decision by the interstate commerce commission (an 11 percent increase is forecast) and rather strong indications that the administration at Washington is prepared to call a truce at least until after the November elections in efforts to pass new legislation opposed by industry," the publication added."

The "Iron Age" composite price for scrap steel declined 9 cents a ton to $13.58 during the week.

EARNINGS.

NEW YORK. (AP). Crane company reported a net profit of $8,765,126 for the year 1937, equal to $3.63 a common share, compared with $5,802,170, or $2.04 a share, in 1936.

Houdaille-Hershey corporation reported net profit of $2,117,442 for the year ended Dec. 31, 1937, equal to $2.14 a share on no par class "B" stock. This compares with $2,202,040 or $2.25 a share in 1936.

Grand Union company reported net profit of $356,671 or $2.23 a share, for the year ended Jan. 1, 1938, compared with $315,341 or $1.98 a share for the 53 weeks ended Jan. 2, 1937.

The annual report of the Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light company and subsidiaries for 1937 shows a net income of $1,997,983 before preferred dividends as compared with $2,647,606 for 1936.

Bohn Aluminum & Brass Corp., and subsidiaries reported 1937 net profit of $1,773,462 equal to $5.03 a share on capital stock. This compared with $1,579,901 or $4.48 a share in 1936.

Southern California Edison Co., reported 1937 net income of $12,058,469, equal after dividend requirements on preferred stock to $2.20 a share on common stock. This compared with $12,837,813 or $2.45 a share in 1936.

American Stores Co., reported 1937 net income of $495,634, equal to 38 cents a share on capital stock. This compared with $2,045,587 or $.157 a share in 1936.

POWER PRODUCTION.

NEW YORK. (AP). Electric power production in the United States for the week ended Feb. 26 dropped to a new 1938 low of 2,031,412,000 kilowatt hours, the Edison Electric Institute reported. This represented a decline of 1.4 percent from 2,059,105,000 kilowatt hours in the preceding week and a loss of 8 percent from 2,207,285,000 in the comparable 1937 week. The contraseasonal drop carried the Associated Press index of production, with 1929-30 taken as 100, to 106.5, also a new 1938 low, from 108 in the preceding week. A year ago the index, which is adjusted for seasonal and long term trend, stood at 118.

The range for recent years follows:

	1938	1937	1936	1935	1934
High	111.8	125.2	119.8	105.5	97.4
Low	106.5	111.8	102.0	94.1	91.9

The institute reported the following percentage declines from a year ago according to major geographic areas: New England 11.0; middle Atlantic 1.3, central industrial 14.9, west central 3.4, southern states 5.0, Rocky mountain 12.9, and Pacific coast 3.5.

WHEAT TURNS DOWNWARD

Exports Bound for Mexico Rather Than Europe.

CHICAGO. (AP). Despite dust-storm reports at some Kansas points, wheat values ranged moderately lower late Wednesday, upturns having failed to hold. A handicap to traders was that export purchases of United States wheat were principally for Mexico, not Europe. Vladivostok continued to buy wheat, but dealt exclusively with Australia.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were ⅜@⅝ under Tuesday's finish, May 93⅛@¼, July 88⅛@¼, corn unchanged to ¼ higher, May 59⅝, July 60⅝@⅞, and oats unchanged to ¼ off.

At first, offerings of wheat futures here were rather light, but with buyers indifferent the selling pressure increased, and the market soon tumbled. Aside from a few small lots of United States wheat taken, overnight business with Europe from North America was nil, but later it was estimated that 500,000 bushels had been bought by exporters Wednesday, including 10,000 tons of Mexico. Meanwhile, the southwest in particular reported satisfactory moisture prospects.

July and September contracts, representing the new domestic wheat crop, led the downward movement of Chicago wheat prices. At one stage, July dropped to 87⅝c against 88⅝c at Tuesday's finish. A bearish circumstance was announcement that February trade in grain futures had reached the lowest volume since 1936.

Corn, oats and rye displayed relative firmness. Cash and shipping interests were purchasers of corn futures.

GRAIN NOTES.

CHICAGO. (AP). Harvey S. Williams of Harris, Upham & Co., said: "In spite of the very dull appearance of the wheat market, the resistance to selling pressure during the past few days encourages belief in a rally from this level."

The Uhlmann Grain company said: "Chicago has about four million bushels more wheat than was stored last year at this time and there should be plenty more in the country which will come forward should May wheat continue to sell at a big premium over the July future."

James E. Bennett & Co. remarked of corn: "Owing to a shortage, the Mexican government was reported to have authorized the importation of corn duty free. There was also some change reported in the British duty, all of which was construed as bullish."

LIVERPOOL WHEAT AND COTTON.

LIVERPOOL. (AP). Wheat futures after opening higher on reports of dryness in parts of the American southwest belt, reacted and closed ⅛d up to ⅛d lower. There was a complete absence of demand for cash grain.

Cotton futures eased under scattered realizing and professional selling owing to easier New York prices. The close was 2 to 3 points lower.

LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO. (AP). Light receipts kept livestock prices on an unchanged to higher basis at the opening of Lent. Cattle were 10 cents to 25 cents higher in an active market while some hogs showed gains of 5 cents to 10 cents, but the bulk of the hog supply and lambs moved at unchanged prices. Supplies in all departments were well below expectations and considerably less than a week ago and a year ago.

Wholesale pork prices showed their first downward reaction in several weeks, with top light loins losing ½ cent a pound to 19½c. Dealers said the approximate 25 percent upturn in wholesale quotations on some pork cuts since the first of the year was an indication, however, that consumers are more active in the market.

The advance in steers and yearlings occurred in an active market. Other classes, including fed heifers, cows and bulls shared in the steer strength. The early top was $10.35, paid for some prime fed steers. Wooled lambs were steady at $8.50 to $8.75 for good to choice kinds but clipped offerings and best ewes gained 15 cents.

DENVER. (AP). (U. S. Dept. Agr.). Cattle 1,100; calves 150; steers steady to strong, $7.00@65; indications other classes around steady but little done; cows $5.00; no heifers sold; bulls $5.75@90; vealers $10.25.

Hogs 600; opened rather slow and about steady; 150-260 lbs. $9.00@15, very little done on heavier butchers; sows $7.75@85.

Sheep 7,500; trucked in fat lambs opened steady, largely $8.00@40, few down to $7.00; asking fully steady on carlots or upward to around $8.65 freight paid; some interests talking weaker, wethers $6.00; native fat ewes $3.65.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK ESTIMATES.

CHICAGO. (AP). Official estimated receipts Thursday: Cattle 5,000, hogs 12,000, sheep 7,000.

NEW YORK CURB.

NEW YORK. (AP). Light selling carried a few utilities and metals fractionally lower in the curb market. American Gas & Electric was off more than a point near the final hour. Smaller losers included Aluminum Co., American Cyanamid "B", Wright Hargreaves, and Lake Shore. Newmont Mining gained nearly a point and Quaker Oats was up as much on small turnover.

NEW YORK. (AP). Despite absence of a definite trend the bond market recorded a considerable number of gains. Higher by fractions or more toward the final hour were loans of Great Northern, Alleghany Corp., American & Foreign Power, Pacific Gas, Pennsylvania, Shell Union, Interborough Rapid Transit, International Mercantile Marine and North American Edison.

U. S. governments held to a narrow path. There were a few slight losses in treasuries. On the loss side were bonds of Baltimore & Ohio, New York Central, Missouri Pacific, Southern Pacific, Cleveland Union Terminal, Central of Georgia, St. Paul and Erie. Porto Rico-American Tobacco 4s gained about 9 points on small transactions.

CHICAGO CASH PROVISIONS.

CHICAGO. (AP). Lard tierces 8.87; loose 8.62; bellies 11.50.

President Roosevelt's constant allusion to the need for a "balanced price structure" springs from a study made several months ago by the division of research and statistics of the treasury department in collaboration with the bureau of labor statistics. As may be noted on the accompanying chart, this study showed that the trend of factory employment fluctuates very much in line with the price of the 189 most sensitive commodities. The president has chosen to call the unsensitive commodities "administered" prices and the sensitive commodities the "competitive" prices. His point is that, as employment apparently fluctuates in line with competitive prices, it is the latter that should be raised in order to create additional employment and that all efforts should be directed toward lowering the administered prices.

COMMODITIES.

TREND OF COMMODITIES.

NEW YORK.—Associated Press wholesale price index of 35 basic commodities:

Wednesday	71.21	Tuesday	71.18
Week ago	71.67	Month ago	72.05
Year ago	91.57

Range of recent years:

	1938	1937	1936	1933-35
High	74.37	98.14	89.22	78.86
Low	70.79	73.85	71.31	41.44

(1926 average equals 100.)

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK. (AP). Cotton futures opened unchanged to 3 lower. Easier cables were partly offset by trade and commission house buying. March, 9.07; May, 9.07; July, 9.13; October, 9.23; December, 9.25; January, 9.27.

Trading was fairly active. While there was moderate Bombay selling here, slightly narrower spreads between Bombay and New York tended to check larger offerings. A little southern and spot house selling was readily absorbed. May recovered from 9.07 to 9.10 shortly after the first half hour, when the list was net unchanged to 1 point lower.

The market turned dull later in the morning but the undertone ruled steady. Some hesitancy on the buying side was attributed to fears further advances would attract freer southern or Bombay selling. By midday May was selling at 9.14, and prices generally were 1 to 4 points net higher.

NEW YORK SUGAR.

NEW YORK. (AP). Raw sugar was unchanged altho late Tuesday there were sales of around 20,000 tons of duty free sugars in March-April positions at from 3.15 to 3.17, an advance of 2 points, with the spot price now quoted at 3.15. Futures were easier under increased liquidation and Cuban hedge selling, especially in the No. 3 contract, apparently promoted by Washington advices quoting Secy. Wallace as stating sugar prices were high enough. March No. 3 declined from 2.21 to 2.19 and September from 2.25 to 2.23, leaving the list at midday 4 to 5 points net lower. In the No. 4 May sold at 1.06 and September 1.10½, or unchanged to ½ point net low. Refined was unchanged at 4.61@4.75 for fine granulated with demand limited to nearby requirements.

COMMERCIAL FEEDS.

BOSTON WOOL.

BOSTON. (AP). (USDA). Sales of wool on the Boston market were scattered and the volume involved in most transactions was small to moderate. The price situation, however, appeared steady to firmer than last week. Grained French combing, fine territory wool ran 62 to 65 cents, scoured basis. Staple combing length half blood territory moved at 63 to 65 cents, scoured basis. A little combing three eighths blood territory wool was sold in the range 58 to 61 cents, scoured basis.

PRINCESSES GO A-SCOUTING

Albanian Visitors Pay a Visit to Headquarters.

NEW YORK. (AP). Their royal highnesses, the three sisters of Zog, self made king of Albania, donned sleek broadtail coats, got a modish Manhattan hairdo, and whizzed off in a big automobile to girl scout headquarters. Gay night life, swing music and the American man weren't even in the picture. The princesses spent their first New York afternoon contemplating rope knots tied by girl scouts and a blackboard diagram of a compass to be carried on hikes. They slept until noon, and went back to the royal suite afterward to rest some more.

Among some of their liaison representatives tempers were a little short, as they went about their duties of protecting the princesses, but the royal visitors continued to smile serenely. Interest in the three sisters reached a peak in a comparatively poor section where they visited a public school scout troop. Urchins mainly of Irish descent stopped playing in the street to crowd about the princesses' car and peer in the windows.

"Princesses, gee, they're pretty," some shouted until a policeman dispersed them.

Here is the way to pronounce the names of the three Albanian princesses:

Myzejen: Mu-zay-en.
Ruhije: Roo-ee-yay.
Maxhide: Maj-ee-day.

The accent in each name is on the last syllable.

DEPUTIES MAINTAIN ORDER

Patrol Scene of Riot at Strike-Bound Plant.

STERLING, Ill. (AP). A group of sheriff's deputies maintained order Tuesday night at the Northwestern Barb Wire company plant, scene of an early morning riot when 200 employes went on strike.

Charles O. Guthrie, an employe, was shot in the groin as strikers and sheriff's deputies battled in front of the plant. Surgeons amputated the left leg of Dale Vroman, 24, another worker, who was wounded by an exploding tear gas bomb.

Thirty-six men arrested after the melee were taken to jails at Dixon, Morrison and Sterling, where they were held without bond.

The 200 men walked out Monday at midnight, Sheriff A. E. Hamilton said, after company officials declined to renew a contract with the steel workers' organizing committee, a C. I. O. affiliate.

JOHN STEUART CURRY IS TO LECTURE HERE

Noted Artist Coming March 13 Under Auspices of Art Association.

Guest lecturer for the Nebraska Art association this year will be John Steuart Curry, rated by American and European critics as one of the most outstanding of contemporary American artists. Curry will come to Lincoln for an afternoon gallery lecture on the second Sunday of the Nebraska Art association's annual exhibition, March 13. According to Mrs. Theodore Bullock, who is in charge of lecture arrangements for the exhibition, Curry will present an informal talk, illustrated with slides, dealing principally with his own work because, as he says in a letter accepting the lecture invitation, "I know more about my own work than I do about anybody else's."

Curry's appearance will be of great interest to Lincoln people, for since 1932 when his now famous "Baptism in Kansas," and "Tornado," excited attention when they were exhibited here, his work has consistently appeared in art shows sponsored by the Nebraska Art association. It is, however, becoming increasingly difficult to secure paintings by this much sought after artist. "Baptism in Kansas," which aroused a storm of controversy when it first appeared, was subsequently purchased by the Whitney museum of New York City, and others of his works were quickly acquired by important art galleries and museums thruout the country.

The University of Nebraska purchased "Roadmenders' Camp" for the F. M. Hall collection in 1934, a painting considered to be one of Curry's best, and used by Thomas Craven as an illustration for his book, Modern Art. The painting was borrowed from the university by the Chicago Art institute for exhibition at the Chicago world's fair. This year the art association will exhibit one of Curry's recent paintings, "The Stallion," which has been chosen by the Museum of Modern Art in New York City to be sent to the Paris exhibition next summer.

Typical Farm Boy.

Born in Kansas, Curry, who is now but 41, did not find the road to success in his chosen career an easy one. His early years were spent doing the hard work required of the typical farm boy. Much of his strongest and most dramatic work has been of Kansas farm scenes and people. Kansas, however, was slow to recognize her talented son. At the time that the University of Nebraska purchased Curry's "Roadmenders' Camp," none of his paintings had as yet been purchased in Kansas. Later, however, the friends of art in Manhattan, Kas., bought one of his works for a permanent collection there.

After varied experiences as an artist in this country and abroad, Curry now has an interesting assignment at the University of Wisconsin. Designated as "artist at large," under the jurisdiction of the college of agriculture, he does little regular teaching. He is allowed the utmost freedom in the pursuit of his own artistic interests, and his main work for the university consists in making contacts with the people of the state—farmers, in the main—thru expeditions into rural localities. He tries to bring to them a sense of the beauty which may be found in their ordinary environment. From the point of view of the University of Wisconsin, according to reports, the arrangement is successful beyond all conjecture.

In bringing John Steuart Curry to Lincoln March 13, the Nebraska Art association is carrying out a part of the educational program which has been traditional with the organization since its inception 49 years ago. In recent times Walter Pach, Arnold Ronnebeck, Allan True, Grant Wood, Walter Gardener and George Buehr are some of the artists and art critics brought here by the association. Last year's guest speaker was George Biddle, prominent American muralist.

AVERTED 505 WALKOUTS

WASHINTON. (UP). The national labor relations board has averted 505 threatened strikes involving 127,286 workers during its 28 months of operating. It has conducted 1,000 elections, in which 360,228 votes were cast.

The NLRB said it had settled 1,060 of the 1,372 strike cases before it, and that 173,308 workers had been reinstated after strikes or lockouts. During the 28 months the board received 11,861 cases, affecting 3,133,322 employes and that 3,614 of these have been closed.

BUY GEORGIA WESLEYAN.

MACON, Ga. (AP). Bondholders bought historic Wesleyan college for $225,000 at auction Tuesday in a foreclosure sale ordered for settlement of a $998,000 mortgage. Officials of the Methodist Episcopal school for women—whose first pupils arrived in hoop skirts and poke bonnets in 1836—announced it would continue to operate. About 300 girls are enrolled.

ENGLAND MOVING TO PROTECT SELF IN THE NEXT WAR

Devises Emergency Plans to Resist What It Visions as Slaughter.

BY RADER WINGET.

LONDON. (Correspondence of AP). Great Britain is devising emergency plans to resist the most horrible slaughter of civilians the world has ever seen. Government officials envisage the next war as a "nine day terror" in which more bombs will be rained on London in one day than all the Zeppelins dropped during the entire World war.

The first sign of war, it is believed, will be the crash of bombs from the air—bombs starting more than a thousand fires, cutting great holes in the street, crumpling buildings into the roadways, disemboweling water mains, and causing broken sewers to spew into basements and subways. A second attack is expected within an hour, but it would be met with a furious counter attack from British airplanes and anti-aircraft guns. Meanwhile, a tremendous squadron of British bombers would be thundering over London carrying a similar message of death to the enemy capital.

What Air Raid Could Do.

Prof. F. A. Lindemann, of Oxford believes one air raid could kill 10,000 persons, wound 30,000, and cause 250 million dollar damage. Two such raids would create as much havoc as the San Francisco earthquake. Winston Churchill, member of parliament, referring to the "nine day war" said the purpose would be to slaughter so many women and children a government would be forced to surrender. A three part scheme to meet such an onslaught is complete, but it will be many months before it can be carried into effect.

Aircraft form the first line defense and attack. The government is producing so many fighting planes that commercial aircraft manufacture has been throttled. The ultimate goal is more than 5,000 trained pilots. Progress is a government secret.

Anti-aircraft batteries form the second line. The government is building the greatest territorial army (like the U. S. national guard) in its history with recruiting at a comparatively enormous total under impetus of propaganda in the press, moving pictures and street displays. All of eastern England and every large town in Britain is ringed with territorial anti-aircraft batteries. Present man power and effectiveness of batteries is undisclosed.

Air Raid Precautions.

Air raid precautions form the third defense line. Sir Samuel Hoare, home secretary responsible for precautions, said they were designed to "prevent panic in an emergency and to enable the essential services of the colony to be maintained."

The foundation of that is a general school, opening shortly in London, to train air raid precautions officers in batches of 30 at a time in a two or three week course. Those officers, returning to their homes, will head raid precautions organizations and supervise local schools, where some 200,000 persons, who already have volunteered, will be trained to act as wardens during raids.

Two anti-gas schools now are operating in Falfield and Easingwold, and several anti-incendiary bomb schools will start soon.

Training of citizens is the final phase. Enough gas masks are being stored to supply each man, woman and child in the United Kingdom, and each householder eventually will receive portable equipment to deal with incendiary bombs. Instructions slowly are being given for construction of gas proof rooms in homes. Housetions, 60,000 police are ready and physicians have received instrucraid precautions duties, 10,000 and war supplies, railroads, food distributors and public utilities have made their own plans for protection. The whole program has been kept in line with practical experience—as opposed to theory—thru reports of effects of air raids in warfare in China and Spain.

So far more than 160,000 men have been trained in anti-gas and holders have been told how to protect themselves against bomb and shell splinters.

some 60,000 others have been trained for Red Cross duty. The London metropolitan water board voted to spend $2,500,000 to protect the water supply from raids, and has asked parliament for financial aid.

NAVAL EXPERTS CONFER

American, British and French Discuss Japan's Stand.

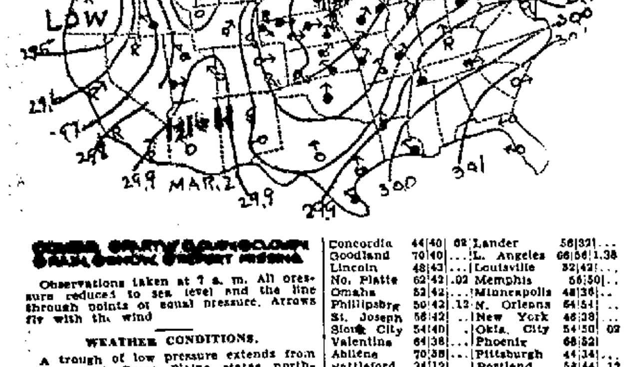

LONDON. (AP). Naval experts of the United States, Great Britain and France met at the foreign office Tuesday to consider Japan's refusal to divulge her naval building plans, but they reached no decision on whether to retaliate by building warships of more than 35,000 tons.

The foreign office said the 55 minute conference was an informal discussion of the naval situation and probably would be followed by several other meetings before any decision was made on invoking the "escalator" clause of the 1936 London naval treaty.

An informed source said the informal nature of the talks would give Japan opportunity to offer, without loss of "face," the details of her building plans which the three treaty powers asked in formal notes Feb. 5.

Capt. Russell Willson, naval attache of the American embassy, represented the United States at the opening conference.

WEATHER BUREAU U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Observations taken at 7 a. m. All pressure reduced to sea level and the line through points of equal pressure. Arrows fly with the wind.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

A trough of low pressure extends from the central Great Plains states northeastward to the lower St. Lawrence valley and another disturbance of considerable intensity is off the middle Pacific coast. High pressure prevails over the interior of western Canada, with a ridge extending southward to Arizona, and the barometer is also high over the southeastern portion of the country. Moderate to heavy rains have fallen in California, and light showers in numerous other central and western localities. Temperatures are near normal in the southeastern portion of the country and considerably above elsewhere. Barometer at 7 a. m., 29.54.

SAYS CAPONE JUST NERVOUS

Wife Grants Interview After 60 Mile Chase.

SAN FRANCISCO. (UP). Scarface Al Capone's wife and brother secluded themselves from society again Wednesday afeer granting an interivew to reporters at a filling station south of San Jose, and denying that Chicago's master hoodlum was suffering from anything worse than despondency and nervousness.

Mrs. Mamie Capone, a tall blonde who come from Miami to visit her imprisoned husband for the first time since he suffered a mental breakdown Feb. 5, was nervous and defiant when she faced reporters who had trailed her taxicab 60 miles from town. The cab stopped at the filling station seven miles south of San Jose and the newspapermen's car came alongside. A man, presumably Ralph Capone, her brother-in-law, was with her.

MARDI GRAS CELEBRATED

Only Headaches Remain From New Orleans Fete.

NEW ORLEANS. (AP). Sharp headaches and dim memories remained for thousands who celebrated what observers said may be jotted down as the grandest mardi gras since a band of gay young blades inaugurated the custom a century ago. The peal of St. Louis cathedral's huge bells at midnight dropped the curtain on merriment and opened the Lenten season.

SCREEN ODDITIES—BY GORDON FAWCETT.

TEETHING TROUBLE—BY GLUYAS WILLIAMS.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND By Edward Wiggam, D Sc.

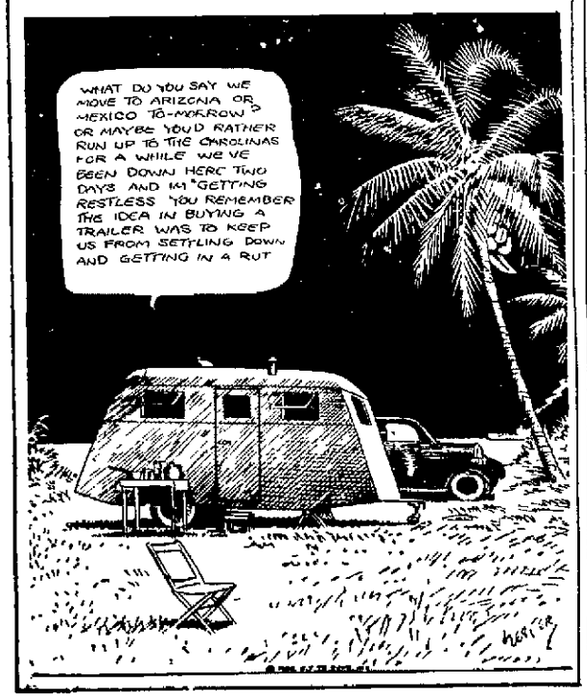

1. About half of the feeble minded people in the world are born from normal intelligent parents This is because the "determiners' that cause feeble-mindedness are apparently recessive, which means that if a feeble-minded person be mated with a normal person some of the children will likely be normal but will "carry' feeble-minded determiners in a portion of their germ cells Now, if such a person should marry another person carrying similar determiners some of the children would almost certainly be feeble minded This happens rarely but does sometimes occur The parents should not unduly grieve or blame themselves as we know no way to prevent it

2 No It s because they cannot be brought to realize that death may be just around the corner They follow the motto, put off anything you can until tomorrow for you may get out of doing it All authorities agree everyone should make a will if he has nothing to leave but his gold teeth and watch fob It lets everybody know what you thought of them

3 So says James Douglas in 'How Not to Be a Bore Recently a publisher begged me to write him a book on Bores I Have Met" I told him it would require an encyclopedia My usual custom is to murder them and be done with it but they must have nine lives because as Douglas says Bores live long A bore never commits suicide He may bore others to death but never himself Each of us has probably bored several patient people to their graves

THE NEBBS—Love's Sweet Dream—BY SOL HESS.

TARZAN THE FEARLESS—BY EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS.

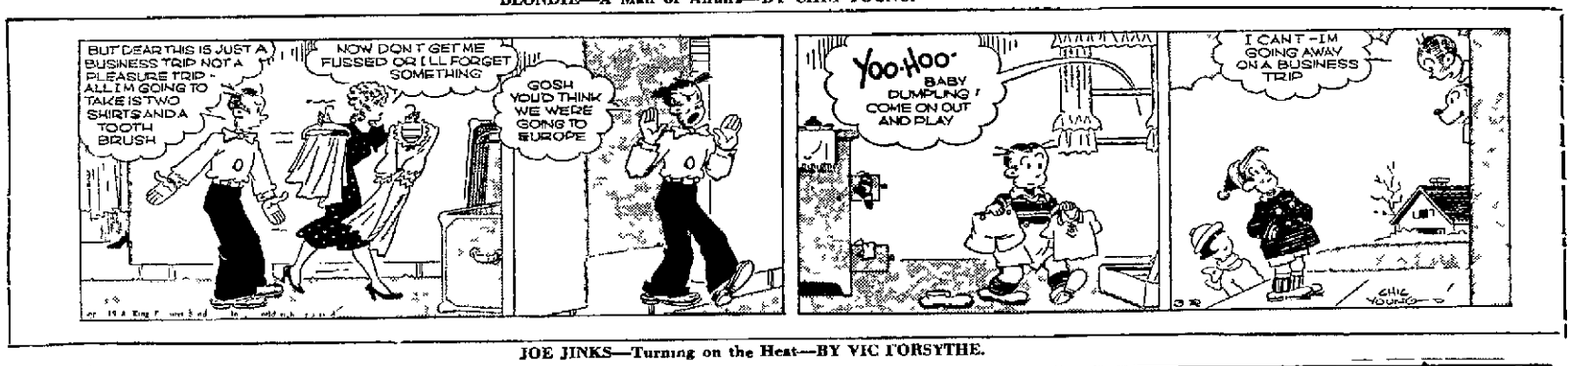

As the terrified Nkima fled screaming into the trees, the patrol of warriors warily entered the cave For a long time they had been searching for the emaciated white man who had been snatched from their clutches by Tarzan, the tree demon And now there he was!

Their first elation gave way to fear when they realized that the powerful demon might be lurking in the shadows, ready to pounce upon them. Timidly they stepped forward, jabbing their spears into the darkness At last they were satisfied the demon had gone

Chattering with delight, they marched Dr Brooks down the hillside Their joy was twofold First, they had retaken their captive But, more important, they had won a victory over Tarzan, the tree demon "Huh!" grunted a proud warrior, "we are mightier than he''

Dr Brooks was resigned to his fate for Tarzan was not here to save him again Death he did not fear but one desire obsessed him—to see his daughter Mary before he died Little did he dream that he was soon to see her—under the most dreadful circumstances
